

A commercial lease agreement is a contract that allows a landlord to rent property used for retail, office, or industrial space to a tenant. The tenant pays a monthly amount, usually calculates as a cost per square foot ($/SF), to the landlord in return for being allowed the right to use the premises for their business purpose. Commercial leases are generally longer than residential types, usually between 3-5 years, and it is common for the tenant to have options to renew at pre-determined rates. However, businesses also use leases to rent out buildings for themselves. This form of contract is called a commercial lease agreement. Most businesses like shopping centers, restaurants, downtown offices, and small mom-and-pop shops don't actually own the property they conduct business from. They rent it! Businesses do this because it's often cheaper for them to rent than it is for them to buy the property. Commercial lease agreements allow companies to negotiate terms and responsibilities with the landlord, and it offers them a way out if they need to relocate or close shop. It makes sense for businesses to rent, especially for chain commercial outlets and retail centers. Types of Commercial Property There are a variety of different commercial properties out there, and it's important for businesses and landlords to know the difference. For instance, it wouldn't make sense for a landlord to advertise a property to retail outlets if the commercial space was designed for a warehouse. So to keep things straight, here are the most common types of commercial properties used today: Industrial properties are the warehouses and factories often located outside of the cities. Prime industrial properties will be close to major transportation routes and will be up to code for manufacturing purposes. The most common types of industrial properties include heavy manufacturing, light assembly, flex warehouse, and R&D facilities. Office – Office commercial properties include a large subset of buildings used for business operations. They can be in the heart of downtown or on the outskirts of towns and suburbs. These properties have three categories based on their quality of construction and location (Class A, Class B, and Class C). Retail – Retail properties are ideal for most shopping centers, restaurants and small shops. These properties can make the lease a bit more complicated depending on the size of the building. The bigger the building (like shopping malls for instance), the more likely that there will be multiple tenants renting out spaces for themselves. This will often include additional terms to negotiate how space will be blocked off for different tenants or if one business will have exclusive rights to the property. As you can see, commercial lease agreements are very common and play a big role in how many businesses operate. Any business can—and often does—rent its property rather than own it. Hopefully, you now have a better understanding of what a commercial lease is, why it's important, and what types of commercial space depends on the type of property such as office, retail, or industrial. All property types are usually marketed as a price per square foot ($/SF). Every property is unique and therefore coming up with a suitable price can be difficult. Therefore, it is useful to see what other property for rent, sign a lease, and begin collecting rent. Step 1 – How Much Space is Available? In order to figure out how much is available for use, you will need to measure and calculate the square footage. This can be completed by multiplying the Length and Width of the interior usable space. Step 2 – Set the Price per Square Foot ($/SF) Select the monthly rent that you would like to charge the new tenant. Unlike residential property, commercial rent is described as a price per square foot ($/SF). When trying to figure the rental amount, it is a good idea to set the price that is close to what others are asking in your area. Step 3 – Lease Type: Gross or Triple-Net (NNN) When choosing what to charge the tenant a major question they will ask is if the rental amount includes the insurance, real estate taxes, and/or the maintenance of the property. This is very important and should be displayed when marketing the property. Gross Lease – The tenant only pays the monthly amount written in their lease. The tenant only pays the monthly amount written in their lease. lease along with the real estate taxes, insurance, and maintenance of the property. Step 4 – Hire an Agent or Market the Property yourself or property aware of the availability. Therefore you will need to decide if you want to market the property yourself or to pay a real estate agent to market the property on your behalf. Every real estate agent charges their own rates although it is the industry norm to charge between 4-6% total lease amount. 50% of the fee is paid upon lease execution and the other 50% is paid when the tenant takes occupancy. So if a lease is for 5 years at $1,000 per month the fee to the agent would be $2,500 ($50,000 multiplied by 5% = $2,500). If you choose to market the property yourself, then you will have to use the power of the internet as your sole source to getting the space occupied. When adding your property it is best to have nice looking images of the interior and exterior and exterior along with any common areas. It is also important to write all the amenities, parking, water/sewer, and any other information that is necessary to the needs of a prospective tenant. Therefore, it may be a good idea for you and your agent (if any) to get creative with the tenant in making a deal that works for both parties. Example – Charge the tenant a percentage (%) rent of their sales rather than a higher monthly amount. Therefore, if the tenant makes money, you benefit as well. Step 7 – Conduct a Credit Check (Business + Individual) Unless you are dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company chances are that you will be dealing with an established company and credit check to see their financial status. Whether you're checking a business or individual the best website to use is Experian. Perform an Individual Credit Check (Experian) – It is best to also conduct a credit check on the business to view income and if they have any financial liabilities that could be separate from the business. Cost is $14.95 to the prospective tenant. View a Sample Individual Report. Step 8 – Approve or Disapprove the Tenant It is now time for the landlord to make a decision on whether to approve or reject the tenant. If rejected, the tenant It is now time for the landlord should be consider having the tenant sign a Personal Guaranty which binds the owner of the Company to the lease. So if the tenant defaults the individual's assets would be liable, not just the business. Step 9 – Determine the Security Deposit Once the tenant has been approved by the landlord the Security Deposit should be made known to the tenant. In residential real estate, there are State Laws that limit how much a landlord may ask from the tenant. In commercial real estate, there are no limits to how much the landlord will commonly ask between 2-3 months rent in case the tenant stops paying the monthly rent or to safeguard against any damage that the tenant may cause during their time on the property. Step 10 – Write the Commercial Lease Agreement Use an attorney or draft the lease yourself. Make sure to gather all the information about the property and the tenant and enter into the agreement. way the signatures are proven and the agreement is much more likely to hold up in court if its legality is ever questioned. Step 11 – Taking Occupancy. This means that the tenant can begin using the space as directed for use in the lease. Both parties will be held accountable for their specified duties until the end of the lease term. Estoppel Certificate – May be requested by the landlord after lease signing to certify a lease exists between the tenant and landlord. Required Clauses American's with Disability Act (42 U.S. Code § 12183) – Also known as the 'ADA', requires that any commercial tenants which offer "public accommodation" (such as a restaurant, retail store, etc.) or have at least fifteen (15) employees adhere to all handicap access rules. This rule is only grandfathered to properties that have not been built or had renovations since 1992. Per 42 U.S. Code § 12183 if the Lessee is using the Premises as a public accommodation (e.g. restaurants, shopping centers, office buildings) or there are more than 15 employees the Premises must provide accommodations and access to persons with disabilities that is equal or similar to that available to the general public. Owners, operators, lessors, and lessees of commercial properties are all responsible for ADA compliance. If the Premises is not in compliance with the Americans with Disability Act any modifications or construction will be the responsibility of the Lessor. Hazard Waste (42 U.S. Code § 6901) – Forces the tenant to sign in writing that they will adhere to any federal, State, or local laws, ordinances, rules, decrees, orders, regulations, or court decisions relating to hazardous substances, hazardous materials, hazardous waste, toxic substances, environmental conditions, including, but not limited to, the Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act of 1980 (CERCLA), the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA), the Hazardous Materials Transportation Act, any other law or legal requirement concerning hazardous or toxic substances, and any amendments to the foregoing." Other Lease Terms In addition, there may be other areas of the lease, outside of the monthly rent, that the parties may want to negotiate such as: Option to Renew – Use if the tenant would like to have the option to stay in the property for a longer time then the right to extend the lease for a specified rental price if they want. Option to Renew' the tenant would like the option to purchase the property for a specified price during the course of their lease. First (1st) Right of Refusal – If the property is for sale and goes under contract with a buyer this allows the tenant the option to purchase the property. How to Use a Commercial Lease Agreement Commercial lease agreements are different from residential lease agreements. They provide many more provisions in the contract to protect both the landlord and the business. Essentially, the purpose of a commercial lease is to make sure there are no loose ends that can leave either party at risk. The terms of commercial lease agreements will be different depending on the specific property and the business that owns the lease. Terms are often negotiated between the two parties to determine: The leasing period How utilities are paid Who is responsible for the maintenance (or how the responsibility will be divided) Whether improvements and changes to the property are allowed (and to what extent) How the property will be used What's allowed on the property (hazardous materials, chemicals, machinery, and combustibles) Annual rent increases (for long-term leases to keep up with the market) Description of the property (including living spaces, appliances, number of rooms and types of rooms) Whether the business will have exclusive rights to the property Whether the company can sublease or assign sections within the property taxes will be split between the business and the landlord (if the owner does not agree to pay for it entirely themselves) This list is not inclusive of everything that may need to be outlined in the commercial lease agreement. There may need to be more special provisions made depending on the property type or business. How to Write Download in Adobe PDF, Microsoft Word (.docx) or Open Document Text (.odt).
