Huge coffee mug meme

Image not available for aColor: Image not available for AColor: If you like coffee, you're likely to appreciate any jokes or tongue-in-cheek statements regarding caffeinated delight. And with the digital world full of memes, you'll surely encounter a good one from time to time about coffee and coffee drinkers. We've put together a list of some of the best coffee memes out there! Check out while sipping a cup, and tickle your tongue with flavour as we tickle your funny bone with humor! You will come with extra energy and high spirits between caffeine and laughter. 1. Dear Santa... Yes, it's the holiday season. The moment we look back on our lives with gratitude, thanking our closest people and wishing everyone the best. This relaxing time we spend with our family... But let's face it. The holiday season is exhausting. Let's admit it, first and foremost; We need to be fed a delicious coffee to be able to enjoy the holiday season. So, dear Santa, listen to us! 2. Santa's Star-Bucks Well, guys, I'm sorry to disappoint you. Even Santa has favorites. Did you think these stars shine on their own? Coffee is Alpha and Omega, the beginning and end of all good things. Why would Santa's crew be different? And if there's a little favoritism here. As long as the gifts get where I'm supposed to, I'm fine with Santa's little coffee bribe. 3. The coffee order went wrong I'm sure you've all witnessed people reacting differently to a barista mixing the coffee order. Some would go crazy, demanding revenge, throwing chairs (OK, I'm doing this). But honestly, no one likes your order of coffee mixed. What? Because then you have to wait longer for you to make a new one. Or, if you're too nice, you'll accept what they brought. Let's say this waiter was fortunate that Mr. Snowman has a melting point, rather than the boil. Who knows how I would react if it hadn't been made of ice. 4. Transitions from the holiday season Each reign comes to an end. You'll know it's Egnog Spice Coffee's Christmas season RECLAIM OF THE THRONE. In addition, you will know that WINTER IS COMING. So, you know what to do - get the nearest blanket, make yourself a delicious holiday spiced coffee and stay away from the cold. 5. We've all been there Santa... How many times have I laughed at how poorly written baristas my name in the coffee cup. Oh, boy, I have gone from different genres to pet names and different nationalities. But it was always funny. But I've never been told SATAN. I'm sorry, Santa, they gave you some funny cards the night you were born. Try to make fun of it. Coffee will do better. Coffee makes everything better. 6. The grinch that stole my coffee as the grinch stole the is such a classic tale, one of dr. Seuss's most popular stories, and Jim Jim assuming the not-so-embraced creature thrilled the audience. Especially notable was his depiction of the grumpy arrangement the Grinch had. Of course, the serious green grouch may have blamed his problems for the lack of Christmas cheer, but we all know the truth - he just needed a cup of coffee! Perhaps with enough caffeine, the blood would have pumped through it better, and you wouldn't have needed your heart to grow three sizes to warm up (1) up! 7. A case of Mondays Everyone has come to love the small deviated yellow creatures known as the Minions. They appear everywhere and are particularly popular in memes. With their special language and overly dramatic reactions to it all, it's no wonder they seem a little hooked on caffeine. Of course, you may not have the same aspiration to take over the world that these little creatures have, but enough coffee to start your day off right can certainly make you feel able to join in this effort! Proceed with caution, though: a whole jar could actually lead to deep happiness! 8. Vices and virtues agree, maybe this is taking things a little far. Few people will take the homicide as a hobby if they give up coffee. Then again, we've all had mornings where we feel particularly killed before consuming our caffeine. Many people claim that coffee is too healthy and an even worse addiction. But keep in mind the alternative: if you remove coffee from an addict, there could be serious consequences (2) to mood and personality. The point is that there are worse things than drinking coffee, and if you're going to take a vice, coffee is the least of the evils! 9. Moral dilemmas (our favorite coffee meme) Coffee and alcohol have more in common than you might think, but the underlying principles are the same. Coffee helps boost mood and increases energy. Alcohol helps to increase personality and relax in a social environment. Wait, doesn't coffee drink a social activity too? Coffee is poorly seen after a certain time of day as a stimulant, and the confines of society tend to place a stigma on alcohol consumption before a certain time. So, the moral confusion in this hilarious meme! Split the difference - have a pointed coffee right after lunch! 10. Glamor Shots Remember when it was popular to get a makeover so you could have a photo shoot that made you look like a movie star? Well, who needs glamour photos to remind us that we're not at our best in the morning? All we have to do is look in the mirror on our way to grab that first cup of coffee to know we're monstrous. Even if we don't look particularly casual, we tend to feel it. This weight of Caffeine really does wonders in our perspective and, as a glamour shot, changes our perspective for what we feel like a million dollars! 11. Jim Henson's Puppet Creators of the Morning Monster have a in the hearts of several generations, and any reference to them, especially in the memes, will be humorous. Add a coffee theme, and you've made it especially ridiculous. Crazy hair, Neanderthal appearance... it almost defines how many of us feel in the morning, and the only way to change our perception is to consume coffee in quantity. What better representation than a puppet to show how difficult it is to act like something human first thing in the morning without your dose of caffeine? 12. Giant cravings I used to give my dad a hard time about drinking two full pots of coffee every day. I would tell him. As an adult, however, I get it. There are days when you can never get enough caffeine no matter how hard you try. Or maybe it's the comforting heat and taste in the winter dead that calls us. Anyway, this image has it right: no longer your cup of joe and how beautiful your surroundings are, there are days when all you can think about is: More coffee! 13. Cheeky Chick The most beautiful and embraced creatures appear all the time in memes, and are very often portrayed as the opposite of their appearance in terms of personality: hard, sarcastic, spiny and grumpy. So it's no surprise that this cheeky chick offers a falsely nice greeting before demanding its caffeine. Sounds familiar? As a coffee drinker myself, I know there were times I've had to stick in this nice mask long enough to walk around the room where my family is to get to the kitchen and pour my coffee. I'm sure I'm not alone! 14. Cynid Lauper Fan Alert! Cynid Lauper bounced off fluffly skirts with pink hair, crooning as girls just want to have fun. While there is nothing wrong with that, and it was an anthem for decades, coffee drinkers may disagree with their claims. After all, there are days when fun has no appeal. In general, these are days when we lack sleep, have encountered problems at work, or face cold weather. These days, we're a little less punk rock and a lot more hipster. And in these circumstances, you'll find, as seen in this meme, that girls just want to have coffee. 15. Never when Grumpy Cat first appeared, the world had no idea how viral her face would become... and his personality clicked with all of us. Through it, we've said things we can't say in real life, and here's another case where she speaks our minds to us. Maybe we joke that we don't want to be bothered until we consume our coffee. Some people go a step further and don't want to be bothered with the conversation at all, just like Grumpy Cat. Especially if your line of work involves dealing with people you can relate to the grumpy anti-teddy cat! 16. Extreme exaggeration When coffee cups started coming in different sizes? Maybe it is when coffee began to be served in large cups of cappuccino and latte, or maybe it just went along with the super-sized mindset of Americans. Either way, many people claim they have a cup of coffee every day. But this single cup could be big enough to hold a whole pot! Exaggeration is part of the humour found in memes, and this particular one should be well received by avid coffee drinkers. After all, get enough caffeine, and we can all be a little over the top with the drama! 17. Bibbidi-Bobbidi-Boo! This goes back to the transformation of some liquid energy. Cinderella was at her worst - gradient and bereavement, her beautiful dress torn to shreds and her hopes faded - when her fairy godmother arrived and made her the literal belle of the ball. Her smile reflected her joy, and she had the princess's aura that always should have been. Similarly, when we encounter this well of despair, our energy runs out, coffee restores us to the beautiful people we imagine to be otherwise. If caffeine makes you shine, you're definitely not alone! 18. Eternal flame Let's negotiate coffee is bad for you to vibrate for the opposite idea. There are always contradictory studies that come out on the health value of any particular food or drink. Coffee is among those studied, so it wouldn't be surprising to hear that coffee can lead to a longer life. For once, coffee drinkers have something to lord about the rest of the population, and that brings that to the fullest. A longer life of drinking coffee? Does this not amount to eternal life for those who prefer an IV drip of the caffeinated drink? If science ever discovers the secret of eternal life, it could just be through coffee! 19. No Jollies Without Joe One of the biggest unanswered questions about Santa is how he manages to make it all the way around the world to deliver gifts to good girls and boys in one night. The answer? Coffee! Huge and ridiculous amounts of it. He moves faster and has no trouble staying awake, and probably feeds his reindeer with a beer that has a particularly high caffeine content. That means Santa probably gets grumpy when he doesn't have his coffee, leading to the possibility of branding good kids as naughty! Instead of milk next year, leave you cookies and coffee. 20. Desperately searching for coffee again, cats seem to represent our inner demons in a bunch of crazy memes. Despair - your lips pulled back, eyes wide and bursting - can hit you at noon when you're between meals and you need a pick-me-up. The poor creature here is at the end of his wit, desperate for the and the distorted image is too close to the way it can be felt during mid-afternoon immersion in energy. Grab this cup of beer quickly, before you start removing your fur (or rather, your hair) out. Your coworkers will thank you: despair is not a good look for anyone! 21. 21. Buzz Do you remember that first high caffeine-content drink you consumed? Maybe you tried to give coffee a while, and then you got to longing. The zing that runs through your system with this initial burst of energy brought by caffeine infusion can make you feel skilful, on edge, and full of life. Then again, it can make the wide-eyed, hardwired creature presented here. Either way, we love tongue-in-cheek humor about anyone first getting into coffee and how it puts them forward quickly! 22. Meditating monkey On the other hand, there are times when we are so in need of caffeine that we are very hooked before consuming it. This leads to a relieved and soulful perspective once we get coffee in our systems. Like the wise old monkey here, we feel grounded and ready to face anything with a peaceful aura about us when we have the coffee we need. Some people don't understand how you can consume a stimulant and actually be calmer, but then, not everyone understands why some people are coffee fans to begin with. Don't bother explaining, just stay calm and have coffee! 23. Munster Madness! The Munsters TV show may not have lasted a dozen years, but it was very popular and has become an icon, especially the face of Herman Munster. His deep scowl made smiling awkward, and it was hard to comprehend whether he could ever be truly happy. But have you ever seen him drinking coffee? The humor here is in the expression: it doesn't settle down and makes you to laugh. You have to wonder if any family members ever offered poor Herman a cup of joe. Maybe if I had been a stable drinker, I wouldn't have developed this permanent scowl to begin with! 24. Delicious delivery It's no secret that women have a particular sense of humor when it comes to their interest in beautifully cut chests and abs. Greeting cards have long played on this inclination for what women commonly refer to as eye candy, and now the memes have joined in the game. What better way to interest a woman in anything than to offer her a delicious cup of gourmet coffee and a gorgeous, shirtless man to deliver it? Thank you, Ryan Gosling, for giving your picture to this meme, reminding women that there are other pleasures in life apart from great coffee! 25. Lord of the Beans Several memes have emerged from the Lord of the Rings trilogy, and this image of Viggo Mortensen as Aragorn is one of the most popular. As he gives his speech of impulse to the mitgers to put them on their feet and ready to fight, we take heart in their determination and sense of hope. Yes, someday we may be able to catch up with our fall, and a where coffee is a luxury rather than a necessity. But until that day comes, no one should give up the tasty vice. 26. The Mug Life Tupac Shakur was more than just a rapper or music artist - it was to be poet at heart, and there have been memes that show one of his best known phrases: I have not chosen life, the machete life chose the has become a declaration of pride for those who choose the lifestyle. The creation of a pun was bound to happen, and cup life would essentially represent coffee dependency. What shouldn't be proud of? After all, avid coffee drinkers can point to the best coffee shops, the best espresso drinks, and the best roasts in the world! 27. Very Pun-my Some may find biblical humor a little unpleasant, but then some find coffee this way too, claiming that beer is not for them. So it just makes sense that this particular line of satire would come into play with puns and other funny quips. In addition, coffee beans have been around for a long time, and although it is not exactly a topic of discussion in the Bible, there is no doubt that a coffee-like drink probably prevailed in biblical times. How else did the Israelites have the energy to cross the Red Sea or work continuously during their slavery? 28. Morning Rituals Remove the Bible from the equation and we move to the opposite end of the spectrum. Pagan and Wiccan religions are almost as commonly referenced in memes and jokes, and when it comes to coffee, there is no escaping the comparison. You've heard reference to pagan rituals and you probably have your own morning ritual starting with a cup of coffee. Honestly, rituals are created because we are creatures of habit, and who wouldn't love to summon a cup of coffee out of thin air anyway? You should never crawl out of bed to do it... 29. Jack's Back This is probably Jack Nicholson's most widespread image of The Shining. You can only hear him saying, Here's Johnny! In the story, the hotel was haunted, and that's what made the main character crazy. Nicholson plays mentally disturbed flawlessly, and it's terrifying. We all know what the real problem was: the hotel ran out of coffee. This could drive anyone crazy, and no wonder it went on a homicide rampage! We all have a little bit of without the right dose of caffeine! Like Jack Torrance, you'd give anything for a drink! Coffee, that is. 30. The return of Grumpy Cat This just goes to prove how versatile Grumpy Cat can be. Same stubborn and unhappy face, different budget. Her expression never changes, and yet how we portray her in tens of thousands of memes changes constantly. When it comes to coffee, she is still grumpy, and therefore is not responsible for questioning well. As much as we laugh, we don't laugh with her because Grumpy Cat doesn't laugh. She takes life and coffee seriously, and we've learned to respect that, even if we get a backpack their expense. Don't you just want to give him a hug? 31. Hallelu-javal! Squirrels - the root of joke jokes hyperactivity - are perfect topics for your local coffee shop or your own pot of coffee! 32. Kitty confused Once again, we count on the cat to give us the 4-1-1. How many times have you tried to talk in the morning and nothing made sense? Your mental wheels weren't spinning and synapses weren't making connections, which led you to sound like one. Enter the cup of coffee, and suddenly we return to your intellectual analysis of the meaning of life and everything (otherwise known as number 42). Like us, the cat's deep statement fades into nothing without the caffeine driving fuel. 33. A little impatience This image takes on my heart. Some mornings, you just can't take the time to dress your coffee in a cup before you get your first drink. Something has to jump the mental process. Others have problems with the idea that we need to get up and fill our cups over and over again. How many times have you considered the merit of picking up the pot and drinking directly from it? It really isn't that different from drinking out of the jug of milk, although you should be warned - you're likely to burn your tongue! 34. Before and after as our previous glamor-shots reference, the sincere before and after this adorable cat represent the mood swing of a caffeine-free morning to the tranquility and sweetness of someone who has had their morning cup of java. If you drink coffee every morning to start the day, you are likely to feel curly and casual until you get it. Then, after a cup or two, you're practically purging. It's easily reliable, and you can share a good laugh with your friends about the not-so-great arrangement before your infusion solution. 40. Favorite Feline What's Better Than a Skewer of a Soft White Skinned Ball? A sip of perfectly brewed coffee, that's what! And the feline here knows it. Think of the deep look of ecstasy on a cat's face when he gets what he wants, the way he purges and his eyes close with delight. Now, relate this to the way you feel when you've waited too long for your coffee. Maybe you showered first, or maybe you had to be online at keurig in the When you finally get that first sip, it's instant relief, like a nature's gift, or a kiss from your favorite hairy favorite 41. Fighting for food William Wallace is celebrated to this day for his bravery in the fight for Scotland's freedom, but most people are familiar with Mel Gibson's portrayal of him and the quotable quips in the film Brave heart. The discourse he gives to men about Brits who do not take their freedom can easily become a picture perfect of how society keeps telling us that everything we consume is bad for us. And the image of this meme represents everything a coffee lover represents! You can give up almost anything as long as you get to keep your coffee. If someone asks you to give up coffee, find a pair of the best boxing gloves you can find, and challenge them to a double! Or if this is too intense, simply share this meme with them and they will get the message. 42. Oh, priorities... Friends; everyone's favorite show for decades. We've learned so many things from them. I don't know about you, but I'd be looking forward to coffee whenever they went to their favorite coffee shop in the neighborhood. I fell in love with huge coffee cups watching this TV show. This meme sums up all the important things in life: love, friendship and coffee. You need to know your priorities, don't you? 43. Batman Brew Even superheroes need some help from time to time. Batman (and other superheroes in both DC and Marvel comics) don't have days off. But imagine Bruce Wayne and Clark Kent actually spent weekends in the lake, with no phone booths or bat symbols. On Monday, they would need a cup of coffee to fight crime and generally rid the world of humans, villains and monsters. There's no denying it makes sense. So, when you have a Case of Mondays, just remember, even the strongest and most physically enhanced heroes rely on caffeine from time to time! 44. Finding Dory Dory's coffee, the Finding Nemo spin-off with everyone's favorite forgotten fish, drifts around Dory's attempt to remember her family and find them. Of course, you can't even seem to remember the cup of coffee you just consumed or what you should do from one moment to the next. While this is an extreme situation, it has probably felt the same way. If so, you haven't consumed enough caffeine and, like Dory, you should look for another cup of dark beer to help keep your mind engaged in your daily tasks! Hey, maybe it was Dory's problem all along. 45. It's not so idle threats you can't say no to Grumpy Cat, and this time we get to the heart of the matter. Again, some experts claim that there are health benefits to coffee, while others seem to think it's one of the worst things you can put into your body. Very the good and bad balance out. But as Grumpy Cat points out, perhaps there are other things that should worry them more, like what happens when every coffee addict in the world goes into retreat, withdrawal, they are forced to give up their caffeine source. Take care: Grumpy cat gives fair warning! 46. Have you ever met such a bitter coffee? Uh, you don't want to step on his feet. So, of course, RUUJUN FOR YOUR LIFE. This coffee is for the real coffee fans. And we approve! 47. Sean Bean... Coffee beans... Any questions? This image, and the quote from The Fellowship of the Ring, has become one of the most viral meme sources in the world. One doesn't just get into Mordor has become iconic, and there are many things that just don't make it over the internet. Of course, considering Boromir is played by Sean Bean, it's hard not to stick to the fact that we're using his date to talk about coffee, which is made of beans. But best of all, the quote here is right - who wants to try to get through a day at work without coffee? Be sure to share your favorite humorous quips and coffee memes with your friends, especially those who love coffee as much as you do. It's always nice to be able to make fun of yourself and your habits. After all, we all have our vices, and coffee is one of the most common and least harmful. At the same time, coffee drinkers have specific habits, and these memes are great ways to express the stereotype without any hard feelings. Laugh, share a laugh, and have some more coffee! You can never get enough! Looking for some Insta inspirations? This is where we listed our favorite Instagram coffee accounts! Accounts!
