In addition to the main phone numbers for a few different contact people, the press office website provides PR contact names, email addresses and Twitter handles for each office. 1 Use social media to contact CNN. The network itself and most of its personalities and shows have its own social media sites. You can leave a comment or tweet on one of these Facebook pages on one of the CNN Twitter handles. On CNN on Facebook, on Twitter and Find CNN on Instagram. You can also check facebook pages for individual people who have their own shows on CNN, such as Nancy Grace or Robin Mead. CNN chief national correspondent John King has his own Facebook page. Anderson Cooper 360 program also has its own page. [2] Search Facebook for the show or personality you want to contact and then post your feedback, questions or thoughts on the respective Facebook page. You could better luck going to Twitter or Facebook pages of specific programs or personalities you're trying to contact. Tweet @TeamCNN to increase the chances of getting answers. [3] To contact HLN (headline news), tweet @TeamHLN. To contact CNN International, @TeamCNNI tweet and contact CNN's N Español, the tweet @TeamCNNEE. The Twitter site for viewer services is . 2 Use CNN's online feedback form. You can contact CNN by providing feedback via a written one on CNN's website. Completing this form on CNN's website is an easy way to contact the channel directly. The form, which can be found in requires that you submit your name and what is your in an empty comment box. The idea is called. Many different programs and CNN's bureaus will send you back to the same online feedback form, including International. There is also a box where you can type additional comments. Then, click on the box that says send feedback to submit comments. You should use this form to report factual errors that appear on CNN. 3 email CNN. If you have comments on a segment or want to give feedback, send them comments@cnn.com. 4 Contact a program directly. Many CNN programs also have their own separate online feedback forms that you can access from their webpage. For example, CNNMoney has an online form that encourages viewers to submit feedback. [4] Many HLN shows - such as Nancy Grace and

Dr. Drew, as well as personality, have their own feedback pages that allow viewers to comment or ask a question. In some cases, the links will take you back to the main CNN feedback form, but in other cases, the programs have their own particular forms. You will be asked to check whether your comment is positive or negative. 1. Consider the news value of your idea. CNN probably won't consider its tip or idea unless it's somewhat newsworthy and that they haven't reported on yet. Make sure they haven't covered the idea already in a news report and also consider whether or not it's news value. Journalists generally consider news value to be subjects that have at least a few of the following: conflict, abnormality, prominence, humor, influence (importance), proximity, human interest and timeliness. [5] Conflict can be a clash of ideologies and ideas, not just physical disputes. Human interest means the story provokes an emotional reaction in the viewer. The effect means the story has a direct impact on a large portion of the audience watching (think a snowstorm closes large swaths of the East Coast.) fame means the story relates to someone or something that most people know. Abnormality is a deviation from the norm. Proximity means there is a local tie-in. Proximity is less important to CNN than most news stations because CNN covers the whole world (however, a U.S. bureau might favor U.S. news, and so forth). Punctuality means that something in consideration is ongoing or recently included or at least that we didn't know before. Humor is something that viewers will find strange or unusual. The news isn't always serious. 2. Call in a news tip. CNN accepts news tips and story ideas from the general public as well. CNN is interested in images or information related to breaking news. If you know about something you think CNN would like to cover, then give a call and leave a message about your tip or idea. Call 404-827-1500 and select Option 1 to leave a news tip or story idea by phone. You'll have the opportunity to leave a recorded message with your news tip. Make sure you get your name, your news tip or idea and Include phone numbers where someone can get more information from you. Speak clearly and keep your message short and talk. For You can try to say something like that, hello. My name is Sally Jones and I have an idea for a story. I think you should make a report about the environmental impact of the new factory in your hometown of Smithshire, NY. This is negatively affecting the quality of water, but people are not yet aware of it. Please call me back at 555-555-5555. My name is Sally Jones and my number is again 555--555-5555. 3 tweet to send CNN a tip. You can also tweet your news tip or idea to CNN if you want. Any relevant pictures or links @TeamCNN that may provide information and/or links. [6] For example, you can tweet something like @TeamCNN please report on the problem of water pollution in Smithshire, NY! People are getting sick and someone needs to stand up for them! 4 Email a news tip. Send an email to tips@cnn.com with as much information as possible. Provide your name and contact information if you want CNN to be able to reach you. [7] Use 5 signals or WhatsApp. These two apps allow you to send news tips to CNN. Download, sign up or log in the app of your choice, then send your message to +1 (646) 397-670. [8] 6 Send a letter. If you'd rather use snail mail, like CNN that you type your tip. If you want feedback, and send your letter from a sidewalk mailbox, include your contact information. To address your letter: [9] Tipsc/o CNN Investigation 30 Hudson Yards, Fl 21New York, NY 10001 United States of Americas Add new question questions How do I contact Anderson Cooper? You can follow instructions to contact CNN, but request that your message go to Anderson Cooper. You can also try to reach that through social media platforms. Question how do I complain to someone in CNN? Your best bet is probably using the feedback form ( or tweeting them @TeamCNN. Question How do I contact CNN? Follow the steps listed in the article. Question How do I give CNN feedback on one of their news anchors? Try using CNN's feedback form: You can provide your feedback using the Initial Thoughts or Additional Comments section. How do I contact a specific person on CNN to ask a question about my program? The easiest way would be to search for that specific person's fan mail/correspondence address. You can also try to leave a comment on their social media pages. Question do CNN celebrities really do their tweets? In some cases, but not all. You should assume that there can be a PR person or social media manager behind it. Still, some celebrities and news celebrities do tweet. This is a rare platform that allows you to interface directly with them, and you can assume that Some of them read their straight tweets. Question How do I contact CNN about concerns over the unequal treatment of certain issues? Use this article to get contact details. Write a Write Letters after formatting standard complaint letters, sticking to facts and not personally attacking people. Whatever your personal beliefs about media outlets, realize that polarization is a journalism that one should do, you need to focus on fairness and balance for audiences, individuals and communities as a whole. Don't harp about political messages; Instead, get to the heart of this case about what's really a violation of journalism/journalism. Question What is the best way to get information about Jeff Zucker? You can try to address a letter to him and send it to corporate headquarters in Atlanta. Or, try using the feedback form and mention that your response is exclusively to Mr Jeff Zucker. Question Is it possible to visit CNN? Yes, it's possible to visit CNN headquarters in Atlanta, though there's an entry fee. You can find more information on CNN's tour page. The question is if I send feedback and ask to remain anonymous, will that be respected? CNN will almost certainly keep your information anonymous, but the only way to guarantee it is to withhold or create your personal information. Show more answers ask a question thanks!
