The congressional panel has been questioning YRC's debt for months. In July, it said the company was at risk of bankruptcy because of heavy pension burdens and has been rated non-investment grades for more than a decade. The money for the YRC loan of $700 million came from a $17 billion pot for national security companies. YRC received far the largest loan from that fund — 10 other companies that qualified for the loan received $35.9 million combined. Mnuchin said more than $16 billion of pot should now be re-established by Congress. He said the expectation was originally that the Treasury might have helped the likes of Boeing Co. or General Electric Co., but the economy and market rebound proved better than anticipated and didn't need money.
