In many ways, they overwhelmingly discourage it. We lived only 1 year. Posted October 02, 2018 Submitted by parents We have no one issue with this school - we love the sense of community, pawstivity, focus on science, projects, and engineering, and the fact that I have never seen a teacher or faculty member seem unhappy. We absolutely love this school, parents, and students. Posted September 14, 2018 Submitted by parents Whole we have satisfied us school. We will choose PPES again. I'd like to see more activities for students (dances, talent shows, classroom parties) vs. events that raise money alone. Posted July 24, 2017 Submitted by Mine's parents and my son's experience at Palisades has been good in some ways and in other ways, the school could improve. The funny thing is, my worst experience here has been with the front office staff. From first enrolling my son to every time I have to visit school, staff have a very elitist and condescending attitude about EVERYTHING. They are very negative and happy to tell you what is NOT allowed or what they CANNOT do for you rather than what is can do to help. You would think this school was above the country the way they tried to keep the kids out. Apart from office staff, teachers need to be held accountable for what they say to their students and how they say it. I've heard some examples where kids embrace or shame in front of classes (by teachers reveal their grades or test scores) because because of teacher frustrated. Unacceptable. Otherwise, my son's test score has been outstanding as well as he maintains a great grade, which speaks with Palisades the ability to meet the curriculum for every student's learning style/current abilities. Posted December 16, 2016 Put forward by another I love this school, it's just a thing I don't like. I don't like the fact that schools are constantly asking for money. I have three students here and they always ask for money for everything, other than that it's a great school! Posted June 12, 2016 Submitted by another Love of IB curriculum, uniform, and inclusive community. Every year my son has had teachers who have gone further to figure out how to help him achieve his potential. Can't wait for my daughter to start here in the fall. Posted June 02, 2016 Submitted by others We start about halfway through the school year. Our previous schools were high-quality private schools. I must say that I am really happy with the staff and the quality of the program. The uniform policy in the public school environment is a win-win. They are active in STEM and provide many enrichment activities. I am delighted that we can find public schools that care about the private education we are familiar with.
