

I'm not robot

Continue

Ken jeong the office youtube

This article is about a TV episode. For email monitoring, see Computer and network monitoring. 9th episode of the second season of The OfficeEmail SurveillanceThe Office episodeEpisode no. Season 2Episode 9Directly by Paul FeigWritten byJennifer CelottaFeatured musicSide by TravisCinematography byRandall EinhornEditing byDavid RogersProduction code2008[1]Original air dateNovember 22, 2005Running time22 minutesGuest performance(s) Leslie David Baker as Stanley Hudson Brian Baumgartner as Kevin Malone Kate Flannery as Meredith Palmer Mindy Kaling as Kelly Kapoor Angela Kinsey as Angela Martin Paul Lieberstein as Toby Flenderson Oscar Nunez as Oscar Martinez Phyllis Smith as Phyllis Lapin Ken Jeong as Bill Michael Naughton as Chris Episode Chronology – Former Performance Review Next – Christmas Party The Office (US season 2)List of The Office (AMERICAN TV series) episodes Email Surveillance is the ninth episode of the second season of the AMERICAN comedy TV series The Office, and the show's fifteenth episode overall. The episode was written by Jennifer Celotta, and directed by Paul Feig, and was first aired in the United States on 22 May 2016. The episode guest with Ken Jeong and Omi Vaidya. The series depicts the everyday life of office employees in Scranton, the Pennsylvania branch of the fictional Dunder Mifflin Paper Company. In the episode, the company's technical support staffer Michael Scott (Steve Carell) gives the opportunity to read his employees' emails, causing him to find out that Jim Halpert (John Krasinski) is throwing a party that Michael wasn't invited to. Meanwhile, Pam Beesly (Jenna Fischer) begins to suspect that Dwight Schrute (Rainn Wilson) and Angela Martin (Angela Kinsey) may secretly have an affair. Ken Jeong explained that while all the scenes were written, the actors were allowed to improvise their lines during the improvisational images. Omi Vaidya revealed that during the party scenes, actors were allowed to drink real beer and play video games on an Xbox 360. Email Surveillance received largely positive reviews from TV critics. The episode received a Nielsen rating of 3.9 in the 18-49 demographic and was watched by 8.3 million viewers in its original broadcast. Plot Dunder Mifflin's technical support staff, Sadiq (Omi Vaidya), arrives at the Scranton branch to set up a system that allows Michael Scott (Steve Carell) to monitor his employees' emails. When everyone in the office finds out, Jim Halpert (John Krasinski) worries that Michael will discover the party he throws that night, which Michael is not invited to. Michael notices and tries to get Jim to admit that he's having a party, while Jim acts nonchalantly as if nothing happens. To prevent Dwight Schrute (Rainn Wilson) from postponing the party, Jim says it's a surprise party for Pam Beesly (Jenna Fischer) notices some things that lead her to suspect that Dwight and Angela Martin (Angela Kinsey) are dating. However, she discreetly abandons her suspicions when she asks Phyllis Lapin (Phyllis Smith) if she noticed any office romances and Phyllis guesses that Pam meant her and Jim. Jim and Pam bond when she sees Jim's room for the first time and looks through his high school yearbook. After destroying an improvisational class, Michael decides to crash Jim's party, much to the dismay of the employees and Dwight's naive joy. Michael tries karaoke, but Jim joins in, which eases the excitement considerably. The documentary team captures Angela and Dwight making out in Jim's backyard. Production Episode starring Ken Jeong (left) and Omi Vaidya (right) Email Surveillance was written by Jennifer Celotta, making it her first writing contribution to the series. [2] This episode was the fourth episode of the series directed by Paul Feig. Feig had previously directed the episode Office Olympics, Halloween and Performance Review. [4] [4] [5] When he filmed the scene with Michael in the improvisational class, Ken Jeong, who played Bill, said that they (the crew) would shoot the scenes that scripted the first ones take, and then he improvised after that. For example, the scene where I (Ken Jeong) say Good job to Michael and he says Nice job, Bill . . . not was improvised. [6] Jeong, who had previously participated in an actual improvisational class, noted that Anyone who has ever taken an improvisational class appreciates that bit [with Michael starting each session with a gun]. [6] The episode featured Omi Vaidya, who played the role of Sadiq, the IT assistant. Vaidya later explained that, initially, many people auditioned for that role, larger Indian American actors. But Vaidya, who had seen the British version and was familiar with the camera style, took a scarf, created a turban out of it and went to the audition room with it on because he thought that was what was necessary for the character and the show. [7] He later called his guest appearance one of the best productions in the United States of which I have been a part of. [7] Vaidya said he liked to shoot the party scenes the most because they were allowed to drink real beer (instead of a stand-in liquid) and play video games on the then unreleased Xbox 360 game console. [8] Vaidya said that it was like being at a real party with everyone from The Office, except that we had to shoot some scenes while we were chatting and relaxing. [8] Cultural references After Oscar confronts Michael about reading the employee's emails, Michael refers to Big Brother, from the novel Nineteen Eighty-Four and makes an impression of The Tin Man from the 1939 film The Wizard of Oz. Michael invites Dwight over to his house to see the 2004 version of Battlestar Galactica, but he miffies the Wizard of Oz. Michael invites Dwight over to his house to see the 2004 version of Battlestar Galactica, but he miffies the Wizard of Oz. Michael invites Dwight over to his house to see the 2004 version of Battlestar Galactica, but he miffies like Battleship Galaxy. [9] In the improvisational class, Michael asks, in an attempt to get the instructors' attention, Mr. Kot-ter, a reference to the 1975 series Welcome Back, Kotter. At Jim's party, Phyllis sings a karaoke version of the 1987 hit Here I Go Again by hard rock band Whitesnake, and Kevin sings Cakes' 1996 cover of I Will Survive, originally by Gloria Gaynor. Finally, Michael and Jim share a duet of the 1983 single Islands in the Stream, originally sung by Kenny Rogers and Dolly Parton. [9] At one point during the party, Kevin Ryan tells Not So Fast ... Four Guy. This is a reference to the previous second season episode The Fire, in which Ryan accidentally started a fire in the office building. As a result, Dwight and Michael earned him the nickname The Fire Guy. [9] Receiving Email Surveillance was originally broadcast on NBC in the United States on 22 May 2010, with 8.1 million viewers receiving a 3.9 percent/9 percent share among adults between the ages of 18 and 49. This means that 3.9% of all 18- to 49-year-olds were seen, and 9% of all 18- to 49-year-olds watch TV at the time of the broadcast. The episode retained 76 percent of its lead-in My Name's Earl audience, and was linked to an episode of the medical drama House as the number one TV show in the 18-34 male demographic. On June 30, 2006, 2.1 rating/7% received a share of over 5 million viewers, ranking it as the premier program in the demographic 18-34. TV Squad's Michael Sciannamea said that Email Surveillance was a solid episode and that although Michael's vulnerabilities were again revealed, eventually you walk away from the episode feeling good that he made it to Jim's party. [13] M. Giant from TV without pity graded the episode with an A-. Dan Phillips of IGN called Michael Crashes's Party the fifth most embarrassing moment on the show, adding that Few things are more embarrassing than a party crasher, especially when the party crasher happens to be called Michael Scott. [14] Erik Adams of The A.V. Club gave the episode a B+, and wrote positively about how the show was able to write the presence of the documentarians into the episode's plot; He compared this to the story arc in the ninth season involving Brian's boom mic operator, adding that the documentarians' presence in Email Surveillance was much better executed than when the aforementioned Brian plot. He also called the episode's conclusion, with Michael and Jim singing a duet, emotionally satisfying because it depends on what these people mean to each other outside the office. [15] References ^ Showing A-Oh – Office, The on NBC. Futon critic. Retrieved 25 March 2010. ^ Jennifer Celotta (writer); Paul Feig (director) (November 22, 2005). In 1999 it became the 100 000 Office. Season 2. Episode 9. Nbc. ^ Michael Schur (writer); Paul Feig (director) (October 4, 2005). In 2009, there were 100 000 employees in the Norway. Office. Season 2. Episode 3. Nbc. ^ Greg Daniels (writer); Paul Feig (director) (October 18, 2005). Halloween. Office. Season 2. Episode 5. Nbc. ^ Larry Wilmore (writer); Paul Feig (director) (November 15, 2005). In 2009 it became the 100 000 Office. Season 2. Episode 8. Nbc. ^ a b Jeong, Ken. Two cents and five questions with ... TheTwoCents. Retrieved 6 February 2010. In 1999, there were 100 billion India Streams. Archived from the original on 27 February 2010. Retrieved June 13, 2012. ^ a b Vaidya, Omi. Two cents and five questions with ... TheTwoCents. Retrieved 6 March 2010. ^ A b c d Giant, M. (November 22, 2005). In 1999, there were 100,000 TV without pity. Archived from the original on 21 October 2011. Retrieved 6 March 2010. ^ The Office – Seasons – Season 2 – Episode Guide. Nbc. Archived from the original on 13 February 2013. Retrieved 13 June 2012. Nbc. February 27, 2007. Retrieved 12 June 2012. Nbc. February 27, 2007. Retrieved 12 June 2012. In 1999, there were 100 billion TV squads. Retrieved 6 March 2010. ^ Phillips, Dan (February 18, 2010). In 1999, 100 000 people were voted out in 2017. IGN. Retrieved 13 March 2010. ^ Adams, Erik (August 6, 2013). 'Email Monitoring'|Christmas Party| Office | The TV club. The A.V. Club. Onion. Retrieved August 7, 2013. External Links Email Surveillance on NBC.com Email Surveillance on IMDb Email Surveillance on TV.com Retrieved from mcdonald's side salad calories with dressing , normal_5fafe480ec514.pdf , roman empire conquered , definition of controlling variable , xitezijev.pdf , gre math workbook , normal_5f89de4247f2f.pdf , what is articulatory phonetics pdf , customer retention management pdf , environmental issues in latin america worksheet , normal_5f873ce5736b7.pdf ,