Mesquite public library system

The mission of the Mesquite Public Library System is to enrich the lives of residents by providing access to a variety of intellectual, educational, informational, recreational and cultural resources. Texas and the Pacific Railway established Mesquite as a warehouse town in north Texas in May 1873. Located in the eastern center of Dallas County, the newly created city began to grow, and citizens incorporated the city in 1887. The Mesquite Public Library has kept photos that provide a glimpse into everyday life in Mesquite and some of its surrounding communities during these formative first few decades. Family life with its weddings, news children, and homes; trade and even the interruption of the war were captured in the photo still. The growing number of students, the variety of businesses and the establishment of churches show the flowering of the Mesquite community. Even though Mesquite had a population of 687 in 1910, photographs from the era show that a solid foundation had already been established for the city, it would become in the future.
