How to tie a toga dress

1 Fold the plain white bed sheet in half lengthways. In general, the toga should extend from your armpits to your knees. But you can go up to the ankle for something more elegant, or you can shorten it for a sexy look. [1] Make sure that the long edges are collapsed instead of the short ones. I want the bed sheet to be narrow, not short. Wear white slips or white tank tops and shorts under your toga for more coverage. If there are no bed sheets, cut a 35 x 75 inch (89 x 191 cm) rectangle out of the dough and hem the edges. 2 With the seat behind you, place one corner above your left shoulder. Use your left hand to push down the left corner about 12 inches (30 cm) from your left shoulder. Hold the rest of the bed sheets in your right hand. If you want to fold the bed sheet short, make sure that the folded part is inside and against the body. You don't want it to look. 3 Roll the sheet and stop in front of your right shoulder. Turn the right corner of the bed sheet sideways in front of the torso and to the left. Pull it behind and beside your back to complete the lap. Stop when you get to the front of your right shoulder. [3] 4 Pull the seat tote and tie the right corner to the left with a double knot. The back of the bed sheets should be placed on the shouldercap, or just below. The right side of the bed sheet should sit on the right armpit. If you are wearing a tank top, use it as a guide on the back of the bed sheet. Wrap tightly enough so that the bed sheets don't fall off, but it's not tight enough to walk. [5] Tuck the knot tail under the shoulders for a better look. Twist the knot tail into a thin rope and tuck them under the knot part of the shoulder. If you do this, you will not see it. If the tail is too short to twist into the rope, push it under the knot and shoulder strap as much as possible. 6 Make a belt by winding a gold cord around the waist 2-3 times. Cut a gold cord long enough to wind the waist 4-5 times. Place it in the center behind your back and cross the front edge of your waist. Roll the edges around the torso and move the back back back. Tie it to a secure double knot at the front. [7] You don't have to tie the code exactly like this, but the crosshairs have a great effect. Choose a rope for the thickness of your pen or pencil. You can also use a leather cord instead. If you do not want to wear a belt with a toga, use a safety pin to secure the lower layer of the cloth outwards. Do this left and right. [8] Instead, wear a gold chain link belt wrapped around the waist. 7 Adjust the front panel to cover the chest. The left side of the front panel covers the left, may be diagonal on the right side of the panel. Gently pull the right side of the panel to cover the right breast. [9] The panel under the belt must also be adjusted, especially if the belt is tightly tied. It needs to be aligned with the panel on the belt. I want to adjust the toga after adding the belt because it is easier to add the belt when the fabric is cinched. 1 Fold the solid-colored bed sheet in half width. White is the most famous color of togas, but you can try ivory, maroon or green. Make sure it is a solid color! [10] Short edges do not need to match. If you need a long toga, you can collapse so that one edge is longer than the other. The toga starts at your armpit and lands where you want it. The long style that goes past your knees works best for this version. 2 Take the left corner of the bed seat in front of the left shoulder. Wrap the bed sheets around the torso like a towel, but you need a corner to tie the right corner. [11] Having a corner level above the shoulder should be sufficient. You can adjust it at any time later. 3 Roll the sheets and finish in front of your right shoulder. The right corner should be long enough to be able to pull towards the back of the neck and towards the left shoulder. If the right corner is not long enough, start again. Now fold the bed sheets in half lengthways until you get the length you want. If the bed sheet is folded in half lengthwise, the sheet should be wrapped around the torso 2-3 times. Wrap the sheet tightly enough to stand up, but you can't be firm enough to walk around. Plan to leave about 3 feet (0.91 m) of material in the right corner. 4 Twist the right corner into the rope. Don't get too carried away here. You don't want to bundle the dough that's already wrapped around you. If necessary, you can first wind a hair tie or rubber band around the bed sheets on the right shoulder and twist what is left to the rope. The hair tie/rubber band functions as a rope stopper. You can cover it later with gold, Roman or Greek-style pins or medallions. 5 Bring the rope to the back of your neck and tie it to the left corner. Tight double knots will work well here, but you can also overlap and pin corners safely. [14] Pull the rope up firmly enough to lift the toga up, but it's not that tight. 6 Press the knot under the wrapped dough. Cover the knot by pulling the sheet, which is already wrapped around it, slightly up. Make both knot tails out of see. If you can't hide the knot, undo it and tie it down in the left corner. 7 Scinch the belt or cord around the waist to secure the toga. Leather and gold cords will be a great piece here, but simpleOr leather belts too. If you're using a cord, roll it around your waist a few times so that you have a cross and an X-shape. This creates a more decorative look. For a more flashy touch, add a Greek or Roman-style medallion to each shoulder. Carefully pin the twisted rope. Make sure they match!1 wear a white tube top and matching white shorts. White is the most popular color of togas, but if you don't like wearing white clothes, you can try off-white colors such as ivory or pale gold. Maroons and greens are also a good option if you want something more impressive. Make sure your bra is strapless too, otherwise you will spoil the whole strapless look! 2 Fold the white solid color bed sheet half width. This is only if your shorts and tube top are white. If the colors are different, match the bed sheets instead. [15] Make sure the narrow edges of the bed sheets match. If it is very high, it is desirable to fold diagonally so that one edge is longer than the other. If the bed sheet is too narrow to wrap around the torso, fold it vertically. 3 Wrap the folded edges around the torso and under the armpits. With toga behind you, place one corner in your left armpit. Wrapped the other corner around the front of the body. Continue wrapping until it fits snugly. [16] This is like inging a towel around your body. Make sure you have a place where you can easily reach and pin to the left corner. If you want to land on your back, adjust the right corner. The toga needs to be tight enough to hold, but loose enough to still be able to walk. 4 Press the left corner under the wrapped dough. To increase the level of security, you need to add safety pins. Insert the safety pin from behind the dough so that it is not visible outwards. [17] Avoid fixing the toga directly to the tube top. It may sound like a good idea at first, but when your toga is pulled, your tube top will also fall off! 5 Scinch with a belt or cord around your waist and secure the toga. Leather belts work well here, but you can also use thin leather or gold cords. If you choose the latter, X.[18] consider winding it around your waist a few times to make this style very simple and elegant. You can wear a gold necklace or collar to make it look more fanciful. The lack of shoulder straps helps it stand out! To add a new question question, do you wear anything under the toga? It's really up to you! You can also go with your underwear for a little bit of more comfortable coverage. Back in ancient Rome, Togas were really popular, with men and women in the form of underwear called sabrigaculum, which was like a basic loincloth under the toga. But if you're not trying to recreate the look of ancient Rome, choose the most comfortable (and appropriate one) for you and the occasion. Question What size sheet is a toga?Wikistaff Editor Staff's answer This answer was written by one of our team of trained researchers who verified accuracy and comprehensiveness. If you want to make a decent toga, some sheets are better to use than others. Your best option is to use twin seats, but if that's all you have, you can get away with a full seat. Fold the sheet vertically to the desired length. For short togas, it can be folded in half. The longer one collapses only the upper part. If you don't have a sheet, you can cut a 35 x 75 inch (89 x 191 cm) rectangle out of the fabric and hem the edges. From there, you can wear it tied to the toga! The stereotypical togus is white, but pops of color will be fun! Question Can you use a white tablecloth? Q. Where can I get the sheets? In the United States, places like bed baths and beyond or target are included. Question Can I use the old bed sheet instead of buying a new bed seat? Yes, completely! If there is dirt or something like that, it might ruin the effect a little, but if it is in decent condition it should work. Question Can you wear a regular bra without a strap on your shoulder if you don't have a strapless bra? If the bra is too loose, it can slip away. But if your bra fits well and is tight enough to get up without straps, you can go for it. You can also use double-sided tape or safety pins (attached to your clothes) to help you stay in place. Question How do I keep the toga in place? Doubts What type of makeup should women wear when wearing togas? But it doesn't really matter. Question Do you need to use a full size or queen size seat? If it's too long, you can cut it. Thanks for the question you see more answers! Thanks! * Your toga can be as long or short as you want it, but in general, female togas are on the long side. Thanks! One strap works great for a fun flirty costume look, I shortened it a bit (just below the knee) and it really got me some great compliments. This should be tried!... More My friend and I were doing a school project in the Roman Empire and wanted to know how to wear a toga. This would be great to wear during a presentation in class!... More This helped because I have a school Greek feast and we have to wear chitons. In my unit, the article was helpful, because I can now make this toga. I used this for god's project in Greece. It worked perfectly! My Latin club had a toga day and I had the most authentic one! All of which helped for the Greek Goddess project. It helps me because I've learned how to do it. Perfect for Toga Thursday at my school is very helpful. Thank you. Share your story story
