It was directed by Darren Aronofsky and stars Ellen Burstyn, Jared Leto, Jennifer Connelly and Marlon Wayans. Ellen Burstyn was an Oscar nominee in the Best Actress category. Argument The film tells the story of Harry Goldfarb (Jared Leto), his mother Sara Goldfarb (Ellen Burstyn), his girlfriend Marion Silver (Jennifer Connelly), and his friend Tyrone C. Love (Marlon Wayans). The story is divided into three seasons: summer, autumn and winter. The story begins in the summer with Sara, a widow living in an apartment in Brighton Beach, Brooklyn. Sara spends most of her time sitting in front of TV watching ads and a quiz show. Her other entertainment is food, which has left her (according to her) overweight. His son Harry only goes to his apartment to pawn the TV, the way he finances his heroin addiction. When Harry's mother receives an alleged phone call from the TV studio Malin & Block, her life completely changes. She thinks she was invited to participate in her favorite quiz show. Sara begins a diet for her red dress (which she wore many years ago, at Harry's graduation) to look elegant on TV. However, the diet does not convince her, and recommended by a friend she goes to a dubious doctor, who prescribes some weight loss pills, which Sara begins to take (without realizing that they are amphetamines) to speed up the process. Harry, visiting, realizes the cause of his mother's strange behavior (a kind of euphoria and bruxism) and asks him to stop taking the pills. Sara explains that Harry's father's death and loneliness affected her too much, and that losing weight to put on the red dress has become the only reason to live for her. Meanwhile, Harry and Tyrone start working as drug traffickers. Harry and Marion plan to open a store with the money they earn to sell their designs. Tyrone, on the other hand, sees this success as an opportunity to get out of the hard life on the streets. When autumn arrives, Sara becomes more dependent on her pills and doubles the dose, so she starts to hallucinate. In some hallucinations, she is seen as a guest on the TV show. On the other hand, Tyrone is arrested, while Brody, who supplied them with the drug, is killed by a rival gang. Harry and Marion are using the money saved to get Tyrone out of jail. Over the months, the drug trade becomes more difficult without anyone delivering them. The relationship between Harry and Marion deteriorates when they forget their future plans for a shortage of drugs. Tyrone receives information about a shipment of drugs that would come for Christmas, so he decides to go with Harry to buy. When he arrives, riots begin and the dealer flees along with the drug. Meanwhile, Marion destroys her designs and some objects in the house as a result of withdrawal syndrome. Sara, who has increased her pill notes, suffers from increasingly intense hallucinations. In her visions, the show's host, edecanes and even a picture of herself mocking her condition. See also how the refrigerator, turned into a kind of monster, tries to catch it. Sara loses her mind and leaves her home in the direction of the TV studio to find out why she hasn't been called yet. In winter, Harry and Tyrone travel to Florida in the hope of finding drugs more easily. Harry discovers that his arm has been infected due to injections being given. When Harry's health deteriorates, they decide to go to hospital for help. The doctor realizes the addiction they both suffer and call the police. Meanwhile, Marion visits Big Tim (Keith David), who will give him drugs in exchange for sex. After receiving heroin, Big Tim informs him of a party on Sunday, where he can get more drugs. Sara is hospitalized in a psychiatric clinic. At the hospital, she is treated indifferently by the officials. A doctor tries to communicate with her, but is not able to formulate coherent phrases. The highlight of the story shows how each character's dreams collapse to tragic endings when they enter the world of drugs. Harry's arm is amputated because his infection turned into gangrene; Sara gets electroshock therapy that ends up driving her away from reality; Tyrone remains in prison, where he must work and receive insults from the guards; And Marion goes to Big Tim's party, where he has sex with another woman while a group of men surround them. Each character, lost in misery, puts the same in the fetal position. On Sara's latest hallucination we can see her winning the show's grand prix and finding Harry there, now Harry is a successful businessman committed to Marion. Sara and Harry hug each other and tell each other how much they love each other, while the audience applauds them. I cast Ellen Burstyn as Sara Goldfarb. Jared Leto as Harry Goldfarb. The film has 78% fresh reviews on rotten tomatoes website, based on a total of 131 reviews, and a score of 68/100 on Metacritic. [3] Roger Ebert of the Chicago Sun-Times newspaper highlighted Aronofsky's work, especially the way he filmed the characters' mental states: When they get high, a window opens briefly for a world where everything is in order. Then it closes, and life comes down to finding money and drugs to open it up again. Nothing else is remotely so interesting. [4] Elvis Mitchell of The New York Times wrote, The filmmaker's cheeky is actually a personal statement, a sign of dynamics that are not only technical for its own explosive purposes, but which are an integral part of storytelling. [5] In 2008, Empire magazine conducted a survey of readers and film critics to select the 500 greatest films of all time, and Requiem for a Dream was ranked 238th.
