Are x and y starters shiny locked

In every single major series pokémon game - except For Pokémon Colosseum, Pokémon XD, Pokémon Let's Go! Pikachu and Eevee, Pokémon Sword and Shield - you can try to get shiny Pokémons as your Pokémon start. This is generally impractical if your goal is to get Pokémon start by any means, as breeding will go faster in most games, but there is something to be said about having your first Pokémon in the game be shiny Pokémon, which is why many people enjoy taking on this challenge. Your odds are constant 1 in 8192 in 5th generation games and 1 in 4096 in 6th-7th generation games. Shiny charm doesn't apply here as you can't get the shiny charm legitimately before you get your first Pokémon, silly. No matter which game you play, here's the basic process of hunting for the shiny starter Pokémon: you'll need to start a new game. Obviously this is something that can't be done on an existing game. (Be sure to clear the save file before you start a new game, otherwise you won't be able to save!) Start the game, make sure to turn the text speed to fast as soon as you are able. Some games also have L = button mode, which can allow you to mash text using the L button as well, and can edit your right hand to check Twitter, change the channel, etc. Very useful because you will be mashing a lot of text. Play up to the point where you get the option to choose your Pokémon start. Most games let you save directly before choosing the start, but some games like X&Y, Sun and Moon, Ultra Sun and Moon have some additional dialogue or cutscenes in advance so you will need to save earlier. Choose Pokémon Start you're hoping to get shiny, mash through the text, and then you'll either check the Pokémon in the status screen or the nickname screen to see if it's shiny, or you'll see if it's shiny when you send it into battle, depending on the game. If they are not shiny, reset the game immediately and try again. There are a few things to note, depending on the game you play: In Gold and Silver & Crystal, since Pokémon Starter Shiny Starter can't be female, check the pokémon sex on the title screen. If it is female, you can reset the soft immediately without having to check it in the case screen. In HeartGold and SoulSilver, you can actually see if the Pokémon Novice is brilliant before it is captured, so this makes it a great game to look for a brilliant Pokémon starter. This also means that you may want to check all three bookkeeper's pokrims to see if it is any shiny before resetting soft. In the sun and moon, you will want to save your game on mahalo trial after saving Lily. Optimally, you will need to just save a step away from the exit. Unfortunately, there's a lot of text mashing you have to go through before you can check if your writer is You can check the title screen, but be careful, because the shiny biblo is not very noticeable. At Ultra Sun & Moon, Ultra Moon, you'll need to save right before entering the grass on Route 1. There is less mash compared to the sun and moon, but it is still moving slowly. As with the sun and moon, shiny Popplio is a bit tricky to notice, so keep a close eye on it. ©2000-2012, 2019 Maryland licensees and licensees. All rights reserved. Thanks for sticking to me you guys ----- I've had Pokémon Y for 2 days and I haven't gotten shiny just yet. 712 reset. It doesn't help that it takes ages to access the Pokémon screen. I kind of die to play it but I do it with every Pokémon game. I started b gloss just to make sure I'm not doing it wrong. That's the right point to see if it's right shiny? Or is it when you choose out of three of them. Originally published by Malmortius [Original Post] I've had Pokémon Y for 2 days and I haven't gotten shiny just yet. 712 reset. I thought it will make it shiny on the screen choose... So either way you're probably doing it to the right. Originally published by Trapleton [Original Post] I thought it will make it shiny on the screen selection... So either way you're probably doing it to the right! I agree, it doesn't look like it's on that screen. I remember that there was one game you can see if it was shiny on the screen pick, so it was basically 3 chances instead of one. I can't remember any game though. The heart of gold and silver soul had them appear as shiny when you could look through all 3 of them. But in X/Y you have to choose one of them first before you know if they are shiny or not. I wish they kept the old style though. The best way to do this is to get ditto and put both in a Pokémon day care center originally posted by jazeo [original post] the best way to do this is get ditto and put both in the Pokémon Theres day care center is always not there. The point is to start from the beginning of the game with I wish you luck! I remember SR'ing for a shiny Totodile in silver spirit while back... You certainly don't have the patience that you have. You have to tell us how it works! That's right, I'm the evil mastermind. ☺ Junko Inoshima ☺ in X and Y you have to do a fight with your writer to see if it's shiny. I got my shiny furky in Y and it didn't appear shiny on the screen selection. As an alternative you can always do the Matsuda method of shiny breeding. Do you not appear shiny there? I didn't even hit the battle part yet I suppose you could do that way but Uber got lucky with my fury and got it at the first try. Still not shiny yet. I'm ill last picture when I get it. I feel your pain? I mean, I've actually played through almost the whole game, but I'm in another gym leader and suddenly mm'ming started for shiny pumps. I'm at 100+ eggs and two days of not playing through the actual game or training my team / it's a very painful 3DS code friend: 4699-5168-7204 I think I was actually at about 700 for Torchic in Sapphire when I gave up. Maybe about 2000 when my Moltres appeared.
