The annual safety and fire safety report included the New Year's Crime and Fire Statistics Act for the previous three years for usc-owned or controlled locations, required policy disclosure statements and other important safety-related information. Paper THE ASR is available at the request of The Department of Public Safety Records by calling (213) 740-6000, by email to DPSRecords@dps.usc.edu or in person at DPS at 3667 South McClintock, Avenue, Los Angeles, California 90089. | Privacy Notice Non-discrimination notice ©2021 University of Southern California The Southern California Location Contact Give Calendar Social Media Directory October 14, 2020 Dear USC Community, As we reach mid-fall fall, we want to take this opportunity to thank all of you for your continued dedication during these difficult times, and to inform you about the work that is engaged in spring semester planning. But first we want to inform you about the change we are making in our university policy for the fall semester. Many students have gone to let us know that they are experiencing unusual levels of stress due to the compressed semester, combined with uncertainty about the pandemic. As a result, we decided to extend the pass evaluation period until November 13, the last day of classes. We're going to extend the class dropout deadline to November 13. Graduates and vocational students should consult their individual programmes on their respective policy-graduating decisions. SPRING PREPARATIONS And local health restrictions prohibit us from resuming all activities on campus. But we talk regularly with our local health officials to advocate for a low-density plan to bring students back for the spring semester. We have teams all over the university working diligently - preparing classrooms for social distance, developing improved cleaning procedures, and finalizing testing and contact tracking strategy that can safely maintain additional campus density. We'll be ready when the guidelines allow for a return to a more active life on campus. SPRING ACADEMIC PLAN Change will begin on January 15, with classes ending on April 30, and exams closing on May 12 for students. To minimize the risk of the virus spreading due to travel, there will be no spring indentation. In its place, the university has created a personal wellness day program that puts mental health and wellness front and center. More details of this initiative will be published shortly. Please stay tuned. Graduates can choose to follow the corrected calendar as described above or stick to their original calendars. Please consult your individual programs if you are not sure. Registration for the spring semester starts on October 26. Reflecting the preparation we are doing now, some courses, both undergraduate and graduate level, will be offered in hybrid and personal terms, while the majority will remain online. Hybrid (which combines remote and live activities) and live courses will be primarily those that require studio or laboratory space and/or equipment. It is important that we have designed the Spring Schedule to be as flexible as possible. Whatever the conditions as we enter the next we will have the ability to go back to completely remote or open more courses for our face-to-face and hybrid modality. Students Students cannot attend individual classes for any reason will be able to meet their full academic requirements online. The academic progress SUMMER scholarship we announced will be available to students whose academic progress has been delayed as a result of COVID-19. This allows students to apply for a scholarship to cover up to eight units of training training applicable to degrees in summer 2021. Students will continue to be liable for the fees (e.g. student health centre fee) associated with summer tuition. To receive the USC COVID-19 Scholarship for Academic Progress, students must be enrolled as full-time students at USC in the fall of 2020 and spring 2021 semesters (12-18 units; audited courses are not considered that requirement). FACULTY AND STAFF The courses we hope to offer in hybrid and in-person modalities are designed by our schools and academic units, along with faculty who have agreed to return to the classroom if we get permission to do so. Cleaning, physical distraction and PPE guidelines will be strictly enforced to ensure the safety of everyone in the classroom. As the university increases density, some employees may be asked to return to the site to support the on-campus community. As in the classroom, all guidelines will be strictly applied to ensure a safe working environment. All other employees who can work from home must continue to do so. HOUSING Our goal is to bring approximately 5,000 students back to the campus of the single occupation. At this point, it's too early to predict whether conditions will improve enough for us to get permission from Los Angeles to continue with that goal. We will have more detailed information to share next month. WE REMAIN COMMITTED The welcome programs and activities start the second week of January and will be held online for all new arrivals and returning students. If conditions allow, we'll add some smaller live events. The event with signature every January is Spring in SC, which welcomes all new students for first year and transfer. This event, together with the Spring Convoy, marks the beginning of our six-week welcome programming. The full details will be published by December 1, 2020. We will be guided by the approach that is best for safety and will make ensure that we can continue to achieve outstanding education, commitment and academic rigour, no matter what we will eventually hire for the start of the spring semester. We realize that many of you feel elevated stress levels given these uncertain times. Please note that we are here to provide support to our community through our student health center and the Center for Work and Family Life. Finally, we want to again thank our students, faculty, staff, and neighbors for reconciling as only our Trojan community can. One thing is for sure: the 2020-2021 school year will continue to be like no other in our university's 140-year history. By working together and taking the necessary precautions, we can make it a safe, successful and memorable year for everyone. Thank you, Charles F. Zukoski Provost and Senior Vice
