True line trains c-liner

Atlas Model Railroad Co. acquired some molds and tools from True Line Trains, a Canadian model manufacturer that produced a number of different HO and N-scale locomotives and cars in the 2000s. Models in this acquisition include the HO C-Liner and RS18 Locomotives scale, slab side covered hopper, 50' Newsprint Freight Car, Fowler Stock Car, Bulkhead Flat Car, Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Cabooses and 40' AAR Box Car. In the N-scale, Atlas acquired the C424 and GP9 locomotives. Atlas said the Slab Side Covered Hopper will be the first True Line car to be sold under the Atlas name. True Line Trains has made some great models over the years that we're excited to produce now under the Atlas name, said Paul Graf, CEO of Atlas. They will perfectly adapt to the other models of high-quality rail products that we make on the HO and N scales. Formerly known as Life-Like of Canada, True Line Trains was launched in 2003 after Walthers purchased Life-Like. Beginning in the 1950s, Fairbanks-Morse began construction of a new model diesel-electric locomotive. Using much of what was learned in the previous model (Erie Bults), they continued to use their first opposite piston engines developed over the years of energy supply for U.S. Navy ships. The new Consolidated Line (known as C-Liners) was available in several variants. The classification system indicates the intended use, unit A or B, power and number of axes. Freight locomotives were a 4-axle B-B configuration, while most passenger units were an unusual B-A1A configuration with a 3-axle rear truck to distribute the weight of the steam generator. Home Products Event Schedule Mail Order Site Map Contact us Link Dear HO Scale Customers, we realize that many of you have asked us when specific trueline trains items will be [released]. Yesterday we spoke to Darren @ Trueline Trains and he gave us an updated schedule for the delivery of the next 5 projects. The Milwaukee Road C Liners have arrived at Trueline Trains and the other roads are about 2-4 weeks out. Trueline Trains has apologised for the delays, but it sometimes takes longer than expected to produce the product properly. [also many other items, such as the sudden fall in the US dollar, non-paying customers and delays in the country] We should also point out (without going into detail) that Darren, the owner of Trueline Trains has had other personal and family issues to address, which are of greater importance than model trains. I'm sure many of our customers realize that family and health come first. This does not mean abandoning many trade barriers that have been presented in the last 2 years. Darren is very open about most of this and welcomed people to contact him by email (Darren@truelinetrains.ca) or phone 905-738-6556 if they have any further questions. Dear customers: Today we received an email from Trueline Trains announcing the opening of a production slot at their factory in China and that they will build some CNR and CPR C-Liners with Sound. Canadian C-Liner/Sound Units have never been available before. Here is the information that is sent to us by Trueline Trains. There is no pre-order period. It's the first first-come first service. Trueline is building only a few of each number. There is an A/B drive and an A drive. You can get them with LokSound/DCC or lokpilot - NO Sound. The same applies to CNR and CPR. I'm sorry about the short notice, but we have no control over that. CN only had 6 street numbers. All copies of the CN (with green/ black/ & yellow painting scheme) Road Numbers were sold out almost immediately. The recent release of The Rapid CN Cars (with green/ black/ & yellow painting scheme) has been complimented by the C Liners. So since we've had so many requests for additional copies of Green/ Black/&Yellow (with Sound) CN 5 Axle C Liners, Hobbycraft has decided to re-release the Engines. They have new part numbers, but the street numbers are the same. We urge all our customers who model the first CN Diesel, to call and order.
