To search, users need a 10-digit number, and detailed results are displayed only for the listed landline numbers. Additional options are usually offered for an additional fee. Other information includes neighbors in the neighborhood and a map showing the exact location with the possibility of obtaining a route. If you don't see the number or belong to your mobile phone, the results show your phone operator's information as well as advanced search options. The fee for advanced options varies depending on the service provider, but usually includes personal data such as background checks, criminality, address history and email address. Users can also get copies of vital records such as birth, marriage and divorce certificates, as well as driving records and can view social site profiles online.
