Sisters cannot even link it under supervision, as indicated in the following quotation from the Letter to the Elders, Oct. 7, 2010: There is no objection if a personally spiraling elder joins or laminates his own textbook or does so for other elders. If you have another baptized brother who is not an old man who does the work for him, the elder should watch as the work is done. External comments, disbelievers or sisters are not allowed to do this work. The quotation in the book is confidential and confidentiality must be preserved. Why the secrecy? Jehovah's Witnesses... Suddenly proclaimers since 1879. Come to me.... and I'll refresh you Shepherd the Flock of God You're always there to listen and share words from the Bible that lift our spirits. Pamela. Thank you for everything you do on behalf of all of us. It really makes a difference. Robert. PAMELA and Robert moved to write these words of thanks to the Christian elders in their respective congregations. Others, among God's servants throughout the world, are also grateful for the continued support and care they receive from those who shepherd God's flock. (1 Peter 5:2) In fact, the Lord's people are grateful for the many things the elders do on their behalf and for the way they do them. Having much to do for christian elders is entrusted with numerous responsibilities. (Luke 12:48) They prepare talks for congregation meetings and share the public preaching of the good news of the Kingdom of God. His duties include making grazing calls to other believers. Elders devote time to those in need of special care—the elderly and others—all without neglecting the spiritual and material well-being of their own families. (Job 29:12-15; 1 Timothy 3:4; 5:8) Some elders help build The Halls of the Kingdom. Others serve on hospital liaison committees or are members of Patient Visitation Groups. And many of them do volunteer work at assemblies and conventions. Yes, elders have much to do in the Lord's work. (1 Corinthians 15:58) It is no wonder that so many elderly workers are deeply appreciated by those entrusted to their care—1 Thessalonians 5:12. 13. Elders who regularly visit Christians at home or at another to strengthen them spiritually are a source of encouragement. If it were not for the loving support and encouragement of the elders, sad Thomas, who grew up without a father at home, I don't think I would be serving Jehovah today as a full-time minister. Many young men raised in single-parent families recognize that the care they received from elders helped them develop a personal relationship with God. Grazing visits are also highly valued by the oldest in the congregation. After a missionary couple in their 80s were visited by two elders, they wrote: We want to express our appreciation for their very welcome visit. After you left, we reread the scriptures you considered with us. We'll never forget his words of encouragement. A 70-year-old widow wrote to the elders: I have been praying to the Lord for help, and he sent two brothers into my home. Your visit was a blessing from the Lord! Have you recently benefited from a visit by elders from your congregation? Surely we all appreciate your efforts in shepherding the flock in your care! Pastors who imitate God and Christ Jehovah is a loving shepherd. (Psalm 23:1-4; Jeremiah 31:10; 1 Peter 2:25) Jesus Christ is also an exceptional spiritual Shepherd. In fact, he is called the good shepherd, the great shepherd and the main shepherd. (John 10:11; Hebrews 13:20; 1 Peter 5:4) How did Jesus care for those who wished to become his disciples? He gave them the warm invitation: Come unto me, all who are to whom ye work and are burdened, and I will refresh you.—Matthew 11:28. Today's elders also strive to be a source of refreshment and protection for the flock. These men prove to be like a hideout of the wind and a place of concealment of the storm, like streams of water in a country without water, like the shadow of a heavy rock in a land of drought. (Isaiah 32:2) Such protectors bring refreshing relief to the flock of the flock, and obtain the approval of their superiors. Psalm 29:9-11, Timothy 5:17. The valuable support of their wives, God's people are grateful for the Christian elders and for the loving support they receive from their wives. Being supportive after receiving sacrifices from the hands of these women. Sometimes, there are at times while their husbands take care of congregation matters or make a grazing call to other believers. Sometimes, however, there is an urgent problem in the congregation. Still, Michelle said, when I see how my husband is preparing for meetings or making a grazing call, I keep in mind that he is doing Jehovah's work, and I try to be as encouraging as possible. Cheryl, also married to an old man, declared: I know that the brothers and sisters of the congregation need to elders to speak, and I want them to feel that they can come with my husband when they need him. My supporting spouses, such as Michelle and Cheryl, voluntarily make so that their husbands can Sleep Of God. The wives of the elders are appreciated for their spirit of support. However, a busy elder should not overlook the spiritual and other needs of his wife and children. A married old man must be free from accusations, husband of a wife, having believing children who are not under charge of debauchery or ungoverned. (Titus 1:6) You should take care of your family in the pious way the scriptures require Christian supervisors.—1 Timothy 3:1-7. For a busy old man, a supportive wife is priceless! That's how married elders feel. It's just like the Bible says: Have you found a good wife? You've found something good. (Proverbs 18:22) With words and actions, these elders show their wives a sincere appreciation. In addition to sincere prayer and pleasant study together, these married Christian couples reserve time to enjoy things like a walk on the beach, a walk in the woods or a walk in a park. Yet, the elders find joy in giving their wives loving care.—1 Peter 3:7. Elders who selflessly shepherd God's flock are a source of spiritual refreshment for the Lord's people. They are truly gifts in a man, a blessing to the congregation!—Ephesians 4:8, 11-13. 11.
