St louis riverboat dinner cruise

Starting a dinner cruise business is a creative idea for an entrepreneur who loves spending parties and time in the water. Many things can be considered and planned to make this type of business successful. Get captain's licence. It is essential for anyone who sails a boat for commercial purposes. If you plan to offer dinner tour compared to six passengers at a time, you will need a master's license. Since the requirements of obtaining a master's license are a year to meet, you may only need to employ a captain who is already a master's license. Buy or get a boat or a jet by it. A dinner cruise is the best pot party boat or a jet for business. Try choosing one that is sour and comfortable and comfortable, it has controlled air conditioning and has the space to prepare food for your carter. To find a boat, you can find classified classified saheda, ask people who work at marina and clubs in any country in your area or talk to the jet broker. Register your boat with the Natural Resources section in your area. It's important, or otherthan you'll not make your food cruise business work legally. Choose a marina to goad your boat. It's best if you don't choose a marina that already works to avoid competition in the dinner cruise business. In addition to rent space for your boat, get spaces to park your customers. Decide what kind of cruise you offer. You want to offer corporate events, sports event mates, wedding, engagement and birthday parties, or dinner cruise packages for holidays. When you offer dinner tour for all of these kinds of opportunities, choosing a place will allow you to improve your marketing efforts. Contract with a carter to prepare food for your food cruise. You can either choose a personal is a private, established local marketing business, or consult the head-shave in your local hotel or resort. You will work with your own carter to prepare the menu as you want. The menu you choose may need to change with weather --this is especially true if you plan to get your ingredients locally. Network with honorary service providers, such as DGs, Band, Event Projectors and Florestis to boost your business. You can team up with them to offer discounts to your customers in exchange of business references and vice versa. If you plan to serve wine on your dinner cruise, you will need to get a liquor permit. To avoid this expense, allow your customers to bring their wine on your food cruise.
