Bank of america notary service

I refined a house and need to receive some locked-notarised documents. Note there's my job load $5.00 per page, which can really add up, so I started looking for some free note options. After doing a Google search I found a free option like the local library, city hall, syndicate, bank, and police stations of all places. The best option for me was my bank so I walked over to the branch talking to the manager. It turns out that Bank of America offers free notary services for people who have accounts! They even allow you to schedule an appointment to have your document notarized. How To Get Notarized Documents For Free At Bank Of America To Make An Appointment Just Log In Bank Of The America Account And Click To Schedule Links Under the Activity Center section on the right side of the page. After that simply chose Target (I indicate it was to see a banker), select a time, and confirm your appointment. It was very easy! Under Check Lines with your local bank office is a great way to get free notary services if you need them. It's sure to beat places like the UPS store that will make you pay $5.00 per document. The answer to that question is yes. Bank of America does provide the notary service to its customers, free of charge!
