Si Woo Kim birdied two of the last three holes to finish with a rock-solid, 8-under 64, coolly rallying past late-charging Patrick Cantlay by one shot to win the American Express on Sunday for his third PGA Tour victory. The 25-year-old South Korean didn't flinch when Cantlay shot a 61 and rose out of 13th place ahead while breaking the Stadium Course record by two strokes. Playing six groups behind Cantlay, Kim comfortably birdied the par-5 16th to pull even. Top oil and gas companies sharply slowed their search for new fossil fuel resources last year, data show, as lower energy prices due to the coronavirus crisis triggered spending cuts. The acquisition of new onshore and offshore exploration permits from the top five Western energy giants fell to its lowest in at least five years, data from Oslo-based consultancy Rystad Energy showed. The number of exploration licensing rounds fell last year due to the epidemic, while companies including Exxon Mobil, Royal Dutch Shell and France Combined also reduced spending, Rystad Energy analyst Palzor Shenga said. Europeans are increasingly turning digitally in the way they spend, save and invest. (Bloomberg) -- Deutsche Bank AG said Sunday it will conduct an internal investigation after a Financial Times report outlines a bank employee's profit-sharing plan that sold people risky investments they didn't understand. We launched an investigation into our involvement with a limited number of customers, a bank spokesman said in a statement. We will not be able to comment on the details until all aspects of the investigation have been completed. He declined to confirm anything in the FT report or to answer further questions from Bloomberg News. The investigation initially focused on a desk in Spain that sells hedging, swaps and derivatives, but the investigation eventually stretched across Europe. The probe, which was codenamed Project Teal, found the bank was misclassified by customer companies under Markets in Financial Instruments Directive rules that require banks to separate their customers from a level of financial complexity, the FT said. The bank believes that some of its employees knowingly sold inappropriate products to customers who may not have been able to understand and accept the risks they were taking, the FT said, citing people. The investigation will examine whether its employees sold investment banking products to customers who breached these EU rules - and then compared these individuals to share profits. The bank is investigating what appears to be a broad pattern of misconduct rather than an isolated event, the FT said, citing people. This wrong move would be the latest in a series of mistakes by the German lender in recent years. It has paid billions in fines and settlements for misconduct, from money laundering to selling toxic mortgage securities and falsifying benchmark interest rates. A group of British MPs said Monday that the Bank of England should stop buying bonds from companies whose actions accelerate global warming. Britain's central bank doubled its stake in corporate bonds to 20 billion pounds ($270 billion) last year as part of efforts to support the economy through the coronavirus pandemic. The House of Commons Environmental Audit Committee, which looks at the impact of public bodies on global warming, said the purchase of bonds high-carbon energy companies are at odds with the government's targets for reducing global warming. The world's top 20 hedge funds earned $63.5 billion from clients by 2020, setting a record for the past 10 years in a chaotic time when technology-oriented stocks led a dramatic rebound in pandemic-induced sales, LCH Investments data shows. As a group, the most successful executives earned half of the $12.7 billion that all hedge funds made last year, LCH Investments, a fund-raiseee company that tracks revenue and is part of the Edmond de Rothschild group, reported. Despite the pandemic that triggered historic stock market sales in March, the big sectors of the economy closed down and swallowed millions of jobs, the top 20 hedge funds surpassing their $59.3 billion in 2019. Language expert's secret: How to start learning any language in just 15 minutes a dayMet Office said that the risk of flooding will be restored when the temperature rises. Britain will team up with Egypt, Bangladesh, Malawi, St Lucia and the Netherlands to help communities around the world that are at risk of climate change adapt and increase resilience, Prime Minister Boris Johnson will say on Monday. Early warning systems for storms and investments in flood drain and drought-resistant crops may be part of measures to promote a new adaptation to the coalition, Johnson's Downing Street office says. Britain will have a rotating presidency of the G7 industrialised nations this year, and Johnson said he would make the need for a resilient economy a priority within this framework. A three-year contract to design and produce the prototype will support more than 100 jobs in Northern Ireland, the MoD said. Said.
