Click here to get the Beard Club Box © 1996-2014, Amazon.com, Inc., or A-stop affiliates covered for bearded millennials, the beard club promoted itself as a manlier alternative to Dollar Shave Club, with the goal of keeping facial hair in fashion through a subscription model that delivers all natural beard products from growth accelerators to essential showers directly to your front door. Launched in 2015, co-founders Chris Stoikos and Alex Brown are trying to create a platform that not only allows you to grow your beard like never before, but also embrace masculinity rather than demolish. That answer comes in the form of The Beard Club. The beard treatment subscription service has become an instant viral sensation with clever online marketing, which includes a parody on the cheekbones of dollar shave club - echoing with Hipsters, lumbersexuals, and ZZ Top wannabes are all looking fluffy stingy faces. Beard clubs start at a basic offer of $2 a month for beard oil, but allow members to create their orders by creating custom-made boxes with all the natural beard care items selected made under the product line. It works on monthly automation, filling your stock at cheaper prices and better performance value than the competition. All orders are shipped from California throughout the United States and Canada. The Beard Club has more than 1 million Facebook subscribers and more than 500,000 Instagram followers. It doesn't boast Morgan's chic, and it doesn't share the same elegant simplicity of Harry, TBC keeps it simple by fitting all your products into small, branded cardboard boxes in line tags, and beard sketches promoting two recent launches: oil, growth and vitamin growth. No logo or real branding appears on it. All of my products are packed inside protective boxes and wrapped around shredded stuffing, which often makes finding items more challenging, and it's a lot of items we're talking about here -- 11 will definitely be. The package consists of two traditional beard oils, two beard balms (normal and sandalwood), beard wax, beard shampoo, growth oils, growth vitamins, wood brushes, wood brushes and unlabeled spray bottles that we discovered are growth vitamin sprays. However, we noticed a difference in our order, since we were informed that sandalwood beard oil would be included. Beard maintenance reviews will continue to be a common struggle for modern people. This is where the Beard Club comes in. Low-risk, high-yield services do for beards, what Dollar Shave Club has done to a clean-shave crowd: hook them into an ecosystem of affordable and reliable beard care products without the inconvenience that comes with buying them. With well rounded goods, TBC's oil selection remains the brand's signature and for good reason. The clean smell of the regular version is as comfortable as the scent worn with a lightweight texture that does not leave greasy residues or weigh facial hair. Pore-friendly ingredients such as beeswax, sweet almond oil. Shea butter helps beard uniforms by moisturizing and taming the balm frizz, giving similar results only, but they work better for fashion and soft coarse hairs. Either way, both work well in facial conditioning. Now beard shampoo is gradually turning into grooming staples, TBC represents the product category well with organic facial hair cleansers loaded in essential oils to nourish pores. You will need more than necessary to enjoy a full wash, even if it will leave our beard feeling soft and get rid of debris and guns. Notes of lavender and rosemary running around their faces, which are made to welcome, whiff out the shower and in close encounters as well. Of course, why the service does more advertising is a natural alternative to all, it is quite confusing, especially since it is a high selling point. However, shampoo is an impressive proposition. Accessories are often a hard sell for any grooming subscription service, that's because most consumers find the option to be nothing more than a bad add-on. The company has nothing to make and is not truly worth the experience. TBC's beard brush and comb are victims of this same shame. The brush has a well-crafted handle, the boar bristles feel more coarse than the other popular options of the market and shed every two or three strokes across the face. We didn't find a real use for it. Our work through such a crowded package has allowed us to do a lot of work. That's not necessarily a bad thing, but it's not a good thing either, especially when your order is discrepancy. The company failed to pack the sandalwood beard oil and shipped two bottles of the normal version erroneously. In addition, due to restrictions On the time side, we have not provided a growth supplement of the service and sprayed the experiment. Perhaps in the next few weeks, will this change as we prepare for Movember, with other services offering good beard grooming products? Sure, that's the quality label and the price? These factors give The Beard Club an advantage over its high-standing competitors as a great grooming hub for sophisticated beards. So if you can live with the disadvantages of certain services, it may suffice as a worthwhile commitment. Cost advertising, let the real company name alone, misleading here. The only thing that is $1 (per month) in The Beard Club is the most basic subscription package, which has the smallest container of beard oil. She's still here. To add additional items to your shopping cart for an additional fee. Fortunately for you, all products are fair, if not lower than the price for the allocation you will receive. Here's how pricing plays out: Beard combs, $5 a year. Beard Brush, $9 Stainless Steel Comb, $25 Sandalwood Mustache Comb, $7 Beard Spray, $14 per month Wax, $6 per month Balm, $7 per month cream, $8 per month growing oil, $8 per month original beard oil, $2 per month sandalwood beard oil, $2 per month shampoo, $10 per month , $12 per month growing vitamins, $19 per month. Per month growing vitamin spray, $13 All shipping per month will be charged a fixed rate fee (est. $3 US, $6 Canadian) with a monthly customer billing service. This means you can re-use beard oil and beard wax no more than what a Netflix subscription will cost TBC, not offering an annual subscription or the option to pay for an annual subscription in advance. How to subscribe to The Beard Club, start by choosing a beard oil subscription You can choose from two different types (original oil or sandalwood) and size (0.5 ounces or 2 ounces), then you will be forwarded to four different product pages - essentials, bath items, accelerators and accessories - encouraging you to add subscriptions by choosing other grooming products. After loading your cart, you can close the sale by pressing the Checkout tab button or the open box logo at the top right of the page. Fill in your delivery details and billing information to place an order. To manage your subscription, refer to the profile picture logo at the top right of the page with your name. This gives you access to the account dashboard with multiple categories to view: update your account information, address and billing information, as well as review orders and subscriptions. There are no great connectivity features, such as the accompanying mobile app or ordering messages such as Gillette On Demand, you can also: connect the service to your Facebook, edit the renewal date to get more products, faster than 30 days, sign up for their beard ambassador program, get a refund for the email referral tracking package as soon as they ship from the warehouse, namely The Beard Club Worth It? Verdict: Promises that avid beard wearers will only benefit from services such as The Beard Club. Choosing a solid product represents all the major product categories that all men need to support healthy facial hair, as well as quality, it's good for brands that still wet their feet in crowded markets. Membership customization is also a sweet feature paid to subscribers so they can cancel or edit subscriptions at any time to stock up on faster than expected. You can avoid grooming tools, as there are top-notch beard brushes and other combs that will work well with the brand's products. Also The way the product tends to last longer than expected, it is a shame that you can't hold a subscription to get the most out of it before you see your next delivery. Of course, these are a little compromise. TBC has the potential to do so, rival Beard Care Club Toppbox Toppbox Guy Box Deals coupons and promo codes get a $10 rebate for all referral members who spend more than $5.
