The tournament was born out of a conversation between the general manager of the Olympia Stadium, Lincoln Cavalleri, Michigan Tech coach John MacInnes and Detroit Red Wings scout Jack Paterson. The three men were discussing the lack of American players in the National Hockey League (NHL) and concluded that a prestigious collegiate tournament could make a difference by promoting interest in hockey among young athletes as well as the general public. Jack Tompkins, vice president of American Airlines, a former gatekeeper at the University of Michigan and a member of the Detroit Red Wings organization, also defended his vision, and together in 1965, they founded the Great Lakes invitational hockey tournament. The GLI has become one of the country's leading holiday college and sporting events, originally from Detroit's Olympia Stadium. Michigan Tech, the tournament host since its inception, added Michigan as a co-host in 1976. The tournament moved to Joe Louis Arena when the new Red Wings stadium opened in December 1979. In 2017, with joe shut down, the GLI moved to the new Little Caesars Arena until at least the 2020-21 season. [1] Michigan State University is traditionally selected as a third participant, while the fourth is a different team temporada. Els futurs convidats són: Lake Superior State 2018-19, Ferris State University 2019-20, i Northern Michigan University University L'edició de 2013 del Invitational es va celebrar a l'aire lliure al Comerica Park, com a part de les festes per al NHL Winter Classic de 2014 a l'estadi michigan. Western Michigan va derrotar michigan Tech 1-0 en la pròrroga. [2] Els jocs a l'aire lliure estaven programats originalment per al 2012. No obstant això, a causa del bloqueig de la NHL, el Clàssic d'Hivern i totes les festes associades es van posposar a 2013-14.
