Missing you! 🥰 #happybi #wcv #tbt Today Ateneo School of Medicine and Public Health held its online ceremony for ASMPH Batch 2020, of which my sister is a part @addieespiritu. They were supported with the doctor's dual degree of medicine, and master's in business administration. While it is quite a different celebration that this batch expects for its 5th year of the program, we are still very proud of each and everyone of them. In the midst of the epidemic, they have been strong in fulfilling all their needs and duties. Now, on the next trip which is doctor Licensure exam, live on trucking! I'm glad to have been part of this important event in my career, Addie! Can't wait to celebrate We can all be together in person again! 🦋🦋🦋 #IWishWeWish for a better health care system in the Philippines; During times of global health crisis, flaws and failures in our health care system are exposed more, and we cannot help but feel frustrated and, most of the time, helpless. Now, we know we need our country's leaders to be physician and patient and to bridge the gap between recovery, illness and welfare. Health care is a right, and the change that our country desperately needs has to start with our leaders. #ASMPH2025PHerspective TG 14 - Chiong, Pertierra, Fua, de la Fuente, Garcia, Dayao, Lim, Nable, Jacobs, Padillo Our current public health system in the country is undeniably weak. By a lack of resources, access to health care, dependency to a more worked yet low-paid workforce, to having incompetent politicians with inefficient priorities, it is clear that there needs to be changes. With the ASMPH community, we are advocates of public health who strive to be catalysts of change so that all Filipinos have access to the health care they deserve rightfully. #WeDeserveBetter #OustDu30 #MassTestingNowPH #ASMPH2025PHerspective Member: Aki Bartolom Brant Biron Therse Evangelista Sydney Go Matthew Lazaro Jasha Lugo Via Mabborang Josh Rosario Mary Tarila Queenie Tia 'Sup ASMPH! The school's premier trade organization, the Innovation Management and Trade Association (IMBA), is looking for its next set of simple leaders who will push the boundaries of health in technology and business. Now more than ever, we need innovative projects that are both informative and beneficial for the rapid telecommunication-dependent distribution of health care. It is also an opportune time to equip Med students who want to start or develop their own business while studying from home with financial and entrepreneurial skills. These IMBA projects will require effective leaders who will take them to this academic year 2020-2021. If you think you (Wo) are the guy we're looking for, sign up now on for a bomb year! 🦋 Foreign Council, together with ASMPH Batch 2022, is to help students from several LEC organizations affiliated to the school by providing laptops and tablets. Because of the limitations imposed by the epidemic, we hope to help them as they start their online classes. If you would like to donate, please see the details in the promo. Donations will be accepted until August, 22, 2020. In the spirit of no Filipino left behind, let us embody our most important Atenean ideal of being with men and women and with others. We practically had no idea what we were getting ourselves into. After a year and a few weeks, here we are: still high-spirited, perhaps less cocky and slightly broken; Still ambitious, but more realistic; And maybe not so naive now. In clerkship you see things, you meet people, you stare at death right in the face, and then you grow. Maybe that's what I miss about hospitals. It forces you to grow. I think I did, I hope I did. So thank you to all the patients that have taught me, all my mentors who have been patient to learn to help me, and friends that made everything too bearable in the worst of times. Bar.
