(WALB) – More than a dozen Ben Hill County School District staffers have tested positive for COVID-19, according to a report provided to WALB through an Open Records Request. The report from the school district's lawyer said that seven teachers tested completely positive, including four at Ben Hill Primary School. The school district had 18 total staff members testing positive and 18 students testing positive. Here's a full breakdown of the numbers provided to WALB: Teachers who tested positive: Staff members, including the teachers, who tested positive: Students who tested positive: On Thursday afternoon, the school district released more information to WALB. From the beginning of Friday, the school system will begin sharing its COVID-19 data on its Facebook page and website every Friday. The information given to WALB was a total from June 1-Aug. 18. We want to make sure that we report on what we have at this time as true cases, as we are grateful that the previous COVID cases have returned to work and are doing well, a school system spokesperson said. At Ben Hill County Schools, we have worked diligently since March 2020 to put plans in place for our school year regarding the COVID-19 pandemic. These plans include one-on-one devices for all grades, update procedures to include social distancing, lower gatherings of children in our lunches, masking preferred for PreK-5 degrees and mandating masking for all staff and 6-12 degrees, weekly changes that meet the guidelines outlined by our Department of Public Health and CDC and continued support for our face-to-face The school system said currently 25 percent of students nationwide are participating in the virtual learning option. This option was great for our students and parents as we use Seesaw for our PreK-2 degrees and Schoology 3-12 degrees, the spokeswoman said. These platforms allow our instructors to communicate with our students and parents along with administering their daily work. We have one-on-one devices in all schools and are requndering our students from online platforms in preparation for any potential COVID shutdown. This ongoing training will increase student readiness and provide the necessary rigour within the program. Our goal is to maintain curriculum packaging for all students regardless of or virtual attendance. The school system has placed hand sanitiser stations at each school, along the corridors, for easy access for students and staff. Plexiglass was added to lunch counters and front offices the schools. Our contracted cleaning company, Cynderella's Cleaning Services, has provided all teachers with a bottle cleaning solution along with various daily cleaning per school. The cleaning service uses syringes to disinfect the classroom or places immediately if a teacher or student is symptomatic. All schools have new water bottle refill stations for contactless hydration. We work closely with our principals daily to keep safeguards for our staff and students the biggest highest priority, the spokesman said. The school system also provided this statement to WALB: We will update you and our community weekly as things continue to change. We are flexible and will continue to search for ways to cope with COVID-19. We have procedures in place for our staff and students. We are so grateful to our staff and students and our community at this time. We want to keep our students in a safe and healthy environment in school.
