Web Development by DantechIT CHICAGO (CBS) - Chicago-area prodigy Akiane Kramarik made a name for herself in the art world at just 8 years old when her painting of Jesus began her career. Then the piece disappeared, accidentally sold, and kept out of the public eye for nearly two decades. CBS 2's Tara Molina reports, the artist recently recovered the work, titled Prince of Peace. (Akaine Gallery) Divine timeline and an unexpected Christmas gift-this is what Akiane Kramarik calls bringing the painting out of hiding after 17 years. Sitting in the North Shore studio, Ramarik walked us through her story. It's still surreal to me. I'm not going to lie, he said. From a cabin in rural Illinois with her parents and brothers, to the Oprah Winfrey Show-when she was just 8 years old My family was very, very bad. We grew up in an environment that was so nurtured and so caring. Everything around us was beautiful. And of course, the piece started it all. Prince of Peace, a now famous depiction of Jesus. I don't belong to any religion. I really belong to God. It took more than 40 hours for then 8-year-old Kramarik to finish the painting almost twice her size. Thousands of copies have been sold around the world. Now, years and hundreds of remarkable paintings later, she told us Prince of Peace is still her most recognized work. The original is only now returning to see after it was taken by an agent and then, Kramarik says, sold by mistake. He spent years in the dark. It was wrapped under the stairs for many years, Kramarik said. It was recently recovered by her family and sold to a private collector for $850,000. But it's not the sale that puts a smile on Kramarik's face, it's the timely gift of light. That was a Christmas present for me, he said. It was amazing to me. To be able to see this in the light again, after all these years. The story is a reminder of the words that work from-Let's Love Guide your life. Love is so strong, he said. It will always appear on time to people who need it most.
