I love five nights at Freddy's and I always will! I was very disappointed when FNaF Help Wanted came out because it was the only game I couldn't get! I own all the games including FNaF World and all the books. I also have a lot of fan-generated games. I think this game would be stupid because of the name. I think you will provide cakes or something like that, but it turned out to be a great game! First, of all the ideas of the game is phenomena! I like the way it enhances reality. It really works in a game like FNaF. It is still similar to other games, you have a flashlight with with Electric. The animatronics were really well done. They look great. It's also cool how you can't see animatronics all the time. They kinda stage out of existence. I thought you'd have to wander around the house. But you shouldn't be a relief. I tried playing Pokémon Go but I couldn't play it because it wouldn't let me move. Games like that don't seem to work for me. I also love how you can attack your friends to get parts. It's a great feature! Secondly, it's all free. I don't have to pay as much for this game as everyone else. So I can see what it was like without using my money because some games are stupid and you waste your money. I'm not saying I thought it would be stupid, but it's a new idea. It's also not a pay-to-win game you don't need to use your money to play. You should definitely download this game. It's wonderful!!! I've always loved five nights at Freddy's, even when the FnaF World came out and disappointed many fans when this game was said to be five last night at Freddy's game I knew that there must be something behind it. This is a mobile game! There is no point in making conspiracy theories about this cause it (May or) May not contain anything to fnaf famous secret legends. This simple game (not simple in graphics, which is gorgeous for 3D models in a mobile game) is fun! I can't wait to see what more will come. The main thing is, I've seen many great mobile games crumble on the simple fact of a pay-to-win basis. I really hope this game doesn't turn into that cause I would hate to see this great concept go to waste. Wait, I'll keep writing this essay. First of all, flash batteries, flashes are an essential part of the game but, the battery goes down a little to quickly, even with quickly turning it on and off. Achieving chip modules? I have no idea how to customize the enddo (I'll figure it out) but if you have the option to customize something (even for it being an essential part of the game) and a player can't do it, it's almost disappointing in a way. There really isn't much else that this game isn't wrong, I really hope more animatronics are added to the game. The nightmares from Wednesday's game will work really well with the mento of this game. so yes. This game is fun. More Five Nights At Warios fangame Wiki in: Comments Share Five Nights at Wario's has a mechanic similar to the original Five Nights at Freddy's: The player looks the security cameras and has limited power. Alternatively, he can close the door or window. When Mario is in the office, using the screen, it will stop his attack. When a plumber is at the door/window, close the door/window quickly. If the player is too slow, the buttons will be deactivated. Five Nights at Wario's 2 has a harder mechanic from the first game. The office has no door and Thomas Taylor must be in power. The only solution to survive is to hide in the backroom when a plumber in the Office, quietly. If the player stays too long in the Backroom, does not hide fast enough, or make a sound, a plumber attacks him. Look at the tool store regularly, to make sure the toads are not ready to attack. Five nights at Wario's 3 takes on an entirely new me mechanics from the last two prequels. Every night you have to hide in a different room to prevent Wario and the plumber from finding you. Each room has a different style of play. On Night 1, you must pull up the camera if Wario or any other plumber appears in the mirror located above the fireplace.. You must also return if Wario or any other plumber in the Left Corridor. In Night 2, you have two options. If you hide in the kitchen, you will have to add fuel to the generator to get the lights on. If you don't do this, you can't see anyone in the hallway and it will make you more vulnerable. If you hide in the bathroom, look for Wario and copper. Similar to Night 1, except for mirror positions and interchangeable doors/corridors. You must use the drug with different effects to combat Wario and his friends. Short Sight Pills - Used for protection, giving you limited visibility afterwards. Long Sight Pills - Used for protection, give you foresothing afterwards. Drug paralysis - Used for protection, preventing you from spinning. More will be added once the full game is released. Community content is available under CC-BY-SA unless otherwise noted.
