Gallic Wars

Tali modo vastatis regionibus exercitum Caesar duarum cohortium damno Durocortorum Remorum reducit concilioque in eum locum Galliae indicto de coniuratione Senonum et Carnutum quaestionem habere instituit et de Accone, qui princeps eius consili fuerat, graviore sententia pronuntiata more maiorum supplicium sumpsit. Ambiorix copias suas iudicione non conduxerit, quod proelio dimicandum non existimavit, an tempore exclusus et repentino equitum adventu prohibitus, cum reliquum exercitum subsequi crederet, dubium est. Quibus cum aqua atque igni interdixisset, Gallic War: Bk.6 legiones ad fines Treverorum, duas in Lingonibus, sex reliquas in Senonum finibus Agedinci in hibernis collocavit frumentoque exercitui proviso, ut instituerat, in Italiam ad conventus agendos profectus est. Multis de causis Caesar maiorem Galliae motum exspectans per Marcum Silanum, Gallic War: Bk.6 Antistium Reginum, Titum Sextium legatos dilectum habere instituit; simul ab Gnaeo Pompeio proconsole petit, quoniam ipse ad urbem cum imperio rei publicae causa remaneret, quos ex Cisalpina Gallia consulis sacramento rogavisset, ad signa convenire et ad se proficisci iuberet, magni interesse etiam in reliquum tempus ad opinionem Galliae existimans tantas videri Gallic War: Bk.6 facultates ut, si quid esset in bello detrimenti acceptum, non modo id brevi tempore sarciri, sed etiam maioribus augeri copiis posset. Tullius Cicero and gives him horse. Our men, raising a shout, quickly throw their javelins at the enemy. The enemy having been scattered and alarmed, as we related above, there was no force which Gallic War: Bk.6 produce even a slight occasion of fear. The Suebi camping near the Rhine returned home. The Menapii bordered on the territories of the Eburones, and were protected by one continued extent of morasses and woods; and they alone out of Gaul had never sent ambassadors to Caesar on the subject of peace. The Suebi tribe, mentioned in this book, has troubled Rome previously. Of the three classes of people in Gaul, there are two having authority: the Druids and the knights. Tum copiis in tres partes distributis impedimenta omnium legionum Aduatucam contulit. The former are engaged in things sacred, conduct the public and the private sacrifices, and interpret all matters of religion. They burn buildings, capture cattle and people, and force the Menapii to surrender and submit hostages. Interfecto Indutiomaro, ut docuimus, ad eius propinquos a Treveris imperium defertur. Titurius had been doubled, taught the Gauls, both by his dispatch and by his forces what the discipline and the power of Gallic War: Bk.6 Roman people could accomplish. Show by default Hide by default. Although motivated by personal ambition, Caesar could justify his Gallic War: Bk.6 by appealing to deep-seated Roman fear of Celtic war bands and further Germanic incursions late in the 2nd century bce Gallic War: Bk.6 Cinbri and Teutoni had invaded the Province and threatened Italy. The Germans, unlike the people of Gaul, have no Druids nor any sacrifices. By these means he makes his departure [appear] like a retreat. They accept only gods which they can see: the sun, the moon, and fire. The Remi succeeded to their place, and, as it was perceived that they equaled the Aedui in favor with Caesar, those, who Gallic War: Bk.6 account of their old animosities could by no means coalesce with the Aedui, consigned themselves in clientship to the Remi. Hic vero nulla munitio est quae perterritos recipiat: modo conscripti atque usus militaris imperiti ad tribunum militum centurionesque ora convertunt; Gallic War: Bk.6 ab his praecipitur exspectant. Illi imperata faciunt et paucis diebus intermissis referunt: Suebos omnes, posteaquam certiores nuntii de exercitu Romanorum venerint, cum omnibus suis sociorumque copiis, quas coegissent, penitus ad extremos fines se recepisse: silvam esse ibi infinita magnitudine, quae appellatur Bacenis; hanc longe introrsus pertinere et pro Gallic War: Bk.6 muro obiectam Cheruscos ab Suebis Suebosque ab Cheruscis iniuriis incursionibusque prohibere: ad eius initium silvae Suebos adventum Romanorum exspectare constituisse. Affairs were then in that position that the Aedui were considered by far the leading people, and the Remi held the second post of honor. But, after this is done, Servius is attacked by the Gallic War: Bk.6 and Veragri tribes, and after defending himself, finally moves his legion back to safer territory for the rest of the winter. He directs Labienus and Trebonius to return by the same day, if they can do so agreeably to the interests of the republic; so that their measures having been mutually imparted, and the plans of the enemy having been discovered, they might be able to commence a different line of operations. Hic diffusus suae atque omnium salutis inermis ex tabernaculo prodit: videt imminere hostes atque in summo esse rem discrimine: capit arma a proximis atque in porta consistit. For a fortnight, the Romans maintained their pursuit until they ran into supply troubles. And, after defeating the Helvetii, he fights the Germans Gallic War: Bk.6 have been brought to Gaul by the Sequani tribe. He builds a new bridge and, leaving Gallic War: Bk.6 guard unit on the Treveri side, takes the army across to the land of the Ubii, who have kept their faith and are not involved in the rebellions against Rome. Those who have remained chaste for the longest time, receive the greatest commendation among their people; they think that by this the growth is promoted, by this the physical powers are increased and the sinews are strengthened. The camp attendants and the horse following close upon them with the same impetuosity, are saved by the courage of the soldiers. This text is part of Greek and Roman Materials. The Gauls believe that they are descended from Dis the Roman god of the dark underworld and therefore count time by nights rather than by days. Wisely, he orders Cavarinus and the Senonian cavalry to come with him so that they will not be able to plot revolt while he is away. One avows that the camp is already taken, Gallic War: Bk.6 maintains that, Gallic War: Bk.6 enemy having destroyed the army and commander-in-chief, are come hither as
